An exchange of kicks between Erb and Peart was followed by a dribble in which King took the ball through the Stanford backfield to Erb. On a short kick from the big California forward, Erb made a clever mark and

I am satisfied with the result. It shows well the comparative strength of the two teams under the existing conditions. The boys played their best and we are proud of them.

A long kick by one of Stanford's forwards sent the ball past Peart and the California full back had to hustle to recover. He got the ball, however, and found tough at centerfield.

Both sides were fighting desperately for a winning score and several changes were made in the line up in a few minutes. Brant went in to replace Fish and Carpenter took Douglas' place in the California forward line. Thorburn replaced Darsie in the rear rank of the Stanford scrum. The play went back and forth between the two 25's at a rapid pace, but neither side could get within scoring distance and the pistol signaled the end of the game with the ball in touch near the center of the field.

By JIMMY SCHAEFFER, Head Coach of California.

I congratulate Mr. Hill for having refereed the game perfectly. His task was far from being an easy one, for with the men covered with mud it was almost impossible to distinguish the players of the two teams. Mr. Hill showed remarkable skill in recognizing the men by their characteristic movements when he could not recognize their faces. The Stanford team were clean, hard-fighting opponents and are deserving of our congratulations. Every man on the California team gave every ounce of strength and loyalty to the battle. Stirling Peart played magnificent football with his sure fielding and long kicking, and is worthily rewarded with next year's captaincy.

Thousands of Spectators Crowd Bleachers
Despite Dampness

(By BERT LOWRY.)

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA,
Nov. 9.—After eighty minutes of slashing and hauling and tugging through a sea of mud the Rugby fifteens from the University of California and Stanford dragged themselves off the field at Berkeley yesterday af-

It was the seventh time in as many years that these two colleges had sought honors on the Rugby field and each wanted so much to win, not alone for the honor of their Alma the seventh time that the Blue and Gold had met the Cardinal on the Rugby battle field. Weeks ago the plans were laid for the battle and every Tom, Dick and Harry and Clarence and Ethel knew that November 9 was the date, the time to begin the battle was 2:30 p. m. and the place was on the field at the University of California at Berkeley.

RUSH FOR SEATS.
Of course the rain put a dampness on the bleachers and the stands and that field was like a country mill stream after a good, hard rain. Still the fans and fanettes wouldn't be denied.

Long before the bells tolled the noon hour, aye, as early as 9 o'clock, they began the march to the battlefield. That is, those that had to take pot luck on a seat in the bleachers, formed this procession and when the ticket offices for the sale of the standing room admissions opened a long line had been formed and when the gates opened there was a hustling and scrambling through the

Those that were fortunate to have some friend who was a college lad or lassie, or had learned his lessons years ago at Berkeley or Stanford, didn't have to hustle and rustle for a seat, but nevertheless they, too, were on hand long before the blow of the ref-

And what a throng it was.

GREAT THRONG.

From near and far they came, one fan, in fact, came from the far off Philippines just to see the battle. He was J. M. Switzer. Years ago he had been graduate manager at Stanford and a ticket-seller, too, and he wanted to see his old college win if it could.

And there was another, too, Billy Erb. He is a brother to Benny Erb, ex-captain of Stanford and from Gotham came he to see the battle.

There were others in that crowd, too. Some were students in their first year of the big universities, while others had followed the Blue and the Gold or the Cardinal since the beginning of their college days even if now

Nobody took time to count that crowd, but the men that handled the pasteboards said that 17,533 Berkeley students took tickets, while Stanford took 5000 off these, and long days before the game there were premiums on the tickets and all kinds of prices were offered.

25,000 IN CROWDS.

Then there were arrangements made for the housing of 5000 in the bleachers on the south end of the field and every one of these were sold, and then one mustn't overlook the press badges and tickets for the Waratahs and invited guests. So when all is tallied up it is safe to say that nearly 25,000 people saw the big struggle from the inside, while here and there in a tree-top or hanging to the cross-arm of a friendly telephone pole were

On the east it was just as noisy. Several of the birds were suffering from flaming red, and the roosters, 2,000 strong, too, and their yell leaders kept the crowd well aware of the fact that they were among the best of the flock. Outriders, too, joined in the yelling and shouting, and for the hope of the future and good were coming in.

the big gate swarmed the twenty odd men and then across the field they broke in two and ran for cover. The ground was soft and the mud was slippery.

Long and loudly yelled the rangers and then a loud order was given. "Follow me the sturdy men of the U. C."

Then came another shout and more yelling and blaring of the band and the men broke in two and ran for cover.

A word here and there, a taking of positions. Then a blast from the whistle and the battle was on.

November Sale

429 Charmeuse and Velvet Dresses—Fresh New Goods, Worth Up to $30.00 $11.75 On Sale Monday at...

Without question this is the most remarkable sale of dresses that San Francisco has ever seen. Every dress is an entirely new model, every dress is fresh and just out of the express package. They are emphatically NOT dresses which have been in stock and reduced in price because they have not sold, but all of these are brand new and have never been shown before.

Our New York organization has purchased these dresses at less than half their regular value, and on this basis we are offering them at a special price.

These styles range from the heavy, richly textured and textured velvets. The colors are navy, brown, beige, Copenhagen, violet, forbesia in solid colors, and many of the models are trimmed with touches of contrasting colors smartly and effectively applied. The styles show tunic and draped skirts, bolero-style collars with shadow lace frills, long sleeves finished with lace frills at the cuff, also some short styles. Others are trimmed in buttons, embroidery, etc. Not a bad style of a poor color in the entire collection.

See special window display for example of the various models. All sizes for women from 34 to 44 and misses 14, 16 and 18 will be ready when the doors open at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

CALIFORNIA FIELD WAS TOO HEAVY FOR FAST PLAY

IN SILENCE BIG CROWD DEPARTS

With Nothing to Chortle Over, the Usual Serpentine Is Not Held

Crowd Brave, Weather Vile and the Game Simply Indescribable

(By W. W. NAUGHTON)
UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Nov. 9.—A tie score—3 to 3. Consequently there was no spilling over the bleacher boundaries and wiggling around the field at the close of the game. And it was just as well. It was not a good day for serpentine. Neither was there any of the customary tumult so far as the spectators were concerned. As a rule, on these occasions when the crack of a pistol signals the end of the big struggle, one-half the crowd becomes uproarious while the other half makes a dismal failure of trying to look unconcerned.

NO TIME TO CHORTLE.
Today it must have been that mutual disappointment struck everybody dumb. There being no victory either way, of course there was nothing to chortle about. So the immense gathering listened silently and attentively to the college hymns with which all well-conducted intercollegiate football games are concluded and then picked its way as best it could through the slush in the direction of the cars.

The crowd was a brave one, the weather vile, the field an abomination, and the game simply indescribable. You see it is this way. Rugby, while not a summer pastime by any means, needs a tolerably dry setting. It is a form of sport in which speed is the principal factor. That is why our Western youths who have taken up Rugby in preference to the other game, have discarded the padded breeches, quilted tunics and the various protecting devices that gave them the appearance of deep-sea divers or knights in armor and have adopted a rig that weighs little more than an actress' bathing suit.

BALL TOO MUDDY.
The ball, too, needs favorable meteoric conditions or it cannot carry itself as a Rugby ball should. Ordinarily a Rugby ball is not permitted to loaf, or, more correctly speaking, is not smothered—like the sphere in the intercollegiate game. It is constantly soaring and scotting or being passed nimbly from hand to hand, but when it becomes water-logged and slime-coated, as it was after the first minute of play today, it is uncertain as to direction and extremely difficult to hold.

As for rapid action on the part of the players, it was out of the question. The field was little better than shallow artificial lakes and it was doubtful if the scrapping it was subjected to before hand improved matters much. That it was scraped was evident from the heaps of moist earth of the consistency of newly mixed mortar that was heaped along the sides and interspersed across the touch line plunged arms first and shoulder deep. But he was not made to look worse by contact with the filth, for by that time he had acquired the complexion of a negro and the appearance generally of a water buffalo fresh from his wallow.

SOME DISTURBANCE.
There was no such thing as fast running and no opportunity for the many pretty plays with which Rugby abounds. As a matter of fact, the affair was about as much resemblance to the orthodox Rugby game as a hair from a lion's mane to a scientific glove display.

It was a case of slip and slide and slug. During every scrum and bit of play in the ruck there was kicked up a veil of dirty water which hid the contestants almost in their own mud. The game was over every distinguishing mark in the way of costume or color was obliterated by coatings of mud and many marveled how Referee Hill managed to establish the identity of players who committed slight infractions of the Rugby code. He told me, smilingly, later that it was only intimate acquaintance with the college lads that enabled him to recognize each man "by his build."

MUD MAKES ALL EQUAL.
The mud, however, gave equal opportunity to the term better-furnished excitement to take the place of what the weather made impossible. For the thing simply resolved itself into a study of what young fellows will suffer for their alma mater. Youths, who in ordinary times probably would walk a block to avoid a wet crossing, threw themselves into the mud and again and again, in a hissing rush on the part of the opposing side. In a short space of time the field was peopled by a huddle of human eels. Some of them had the garments torn from body and limb, but the mud made them all equal. No one was hurt, but it was a slippery business and who could blame a football out and out?

Incidentally the spectacle suggested a line of thought. It appears to be a pity that the inevitable "rain or shine" rule compels the flower of our college athletes to engage in their memorable struggle under such conditions as prevailed. If the college physicians are not kept busy for the next few days in tending to the ailments of threatened players, it is a pity that the game is not played in a more sheltered environment. The looking-alike were the cause of his peace.

PLAY WAS 'CLEAN' DESPITE THE MUD

Both teams are to be commended for their clean, sportsmanlike play. Two teams were never more evenly matched and the score shows exactly their comparative merits.

many a sinking heart on both sides of the bay this morning. Windings were peeped through early to ascertain if the rain still fell and the reports of abandonment of plans for attending the intercollegiate spectacle of the year were numerous. Opinions were aired that while the conditions attached to the sale of tickets would preclude any possibility of a shortage in the receipts, all prospects of a big attendance had vanished.

PAPERS SOLD FOR SEATS.
The early boats carried a small scattering crowd of rooters, but the rain kept on. Outside the gates the vendors of banners seemed to have little heart to cry their wares. But bustling peddlers of newspapers rose to the occasion. "Papers to sit on—a nickel apiece," he yelled and those who heard commended him for his novel methods of increasing circulation of his wares. By half past one the rooting section wore in position, but the balance of the elevated seats looked sullen and lonesome. Here and there were small groups roofed with umbrellas and it began to look as though the pessimistic views expressed in connection with the attendance would prove correct.

SEATS ARE FILLED.
The crowd still swelled. The ticket holders came all at once seemingly and in a very short space of time the gaps in the bleachers closed and was the same old sight of other years. But the stands, though tightly packed, for obvious reasons, did not look as gay as at other games. There were christenings and banners, but nothing to make the eyes of the spectators brighten.

The Stanford rooters were the first to make themselves heard. They furnished the customary output of yells and songs and then the blue and gold cohorts across the field took up the cry. The hands crashed into brass music and back in the university grounds there was sharp detonations as bombs and rockets exploded, carrying skyward streamers, tissue paper representations of bears and other light firework displays.

As the hour for starting the game drew near it was easy enough to become affected by the contagion of enthusiasm that was developing. If a fellow could only keep his eye off that glistening pool-covered field. It was depressing to think of the fine fellows who were destined to measure their lengths and roll over and over in that highly diluted adobe. What if it could practical Douglas? It is as fair for one as the other. It is not in the game. It is fair for neither was the referee's recorder and thereafter held his peace.

ALAMEDANS SELL BIG MERCED TRACT

Two Thousand Acres of Gen. Fremont Tract Bring $150,000.

FREEMONT, Nov. 9.—Two thousand acres in Merced county, part of the General Fremont grant, have been purchased by Charles Teague from William Preston of Alameda. The purchase price was $150,000. The sale was made by Omar Ryan of Fresno.

John Charles Fremont settled on these lands before California was admitted into the Union where he built a small cabin from heavy logs which are well preserved at the present time.

General Fremont was the first Republican candidate for the presidency of the United States and was defeated by Buchanan.

The famous Mariposa trail crossed the lands. It was used by the pony express and the early gold hunters.

In 1846 General Fremont started the American explorers to California, he inaugurated what is known as the Bear Flag revolt, captured the town of Sonoma and on July 4 issued a proclamation declaring California independent. Under his leadership many of the pioneers settled in the San Joaquin valley.

Confagration inside of a clock afforded an unusual sight last evening until several bottles of seltzer water well directed by a bartender in the Acme restaurant at 1616 San Pablo avenue quenched the flames. "Crossed wires in an electrical clock housing on the wall in the dining room caused an outburst of flames which startled diners in the place. An alarm of fire was turned in from the nearest box with the result that the department quickly in the case. Before the arrival of the engine the flames had been subdued with water. Damage to the walls. The destruction was a complete wreck.

PLAYERS MADE WERE FRIENDLY HALF-BLIND IN SPITE OF RIVALRY BY MUD

By LOUIS CASS, Stanford's Captain.
By JOHNNY STROUD, California's Captain.

I don't think a Rugby game was ever before played under such conditions as existed in today's contest. Half the time the men were completely blinded with the mud. This, I think, accounts for the great number of offside penalties. We put up the best fight we knew how, and have no kick coming over the result.

A tie game leaves one with a very peculiar feeling. We cannot feel disappointed nor can we feel elated. Every man on the California team played his best. For Stanford we have nothing but the heartiest commendations. After the 60 minutes hard fighting no two teams ever left a field better friends than we did.

SURVIVING BANDIT IS UNNERVED BY CORPSE

ASHLAND, Ore., Nov. 9.—Is that you, Frank? Inquired the surviving Shasta Limited bandit as he reached the head of the train at Delta, Cal. Last night with Mall Clerk Swenson and Willoughby and Electrician Kitts marching before him. Frank made no reply. He was lying beside the oil tender. "Who in the hell did that?" Inquired the bandit. The mail clerks made no reply. The survivor surveyed the corpse a minute or two, then picked up his foot, backed down the track and disappeared in the canyon, making presumably for the Sacramento river. The real story of the hold up was told tonight by brakeman Jim Youkum of Ashland, Ore., the man who did the killing. He said: "We had just started out of Delta when one robber mounted the oil tender and a other hoisted the mail car and I fired the dynamite. I didn't see the other robber. He came out of the mail car and shot me. He was not six feet distant when he shot. He had climbed onto the water tank of the engine and shot the robber as he was giving orders to the engineer. The next I knew the car and I was stopped the train. WILSON TO CLEAN UP STATE

New Jersey Demands My Attention and Shall Have It, Says President-Elect

Governor Attends Princeton Football Game; Is Loudly Cheered by Students

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—Governor Wilson will devote the whole of next week to preparing the state of New Jersey for a house-cleaning. The President-elect announced tonight that he would be free to look over his own state—now thoroughly Democratic in every branch—by Monday.

"I hope I will be far enough advanced with my correspondence by Monday to take up state business," he said. "I intend to devote the week to the state preparatory to going away on my vacation. There are quite a number of appointments to be made. Many of them are small, but it is too early to take up specific legislation at this time, but the state demands my attention and shall have it."

This is the first time that the legislature has been democratic in both branches since Woodrow Wilson's election as governor. He has naturally been seriously handicapped in carrying out the reforms set forth in the platform upon which he was elected. Now he has a new platform, the one upon which the party won its fight in the state at this election.

AIMS AT MODEL STATE.

The governor expects to have the situation in New Jersey so well in hand that when he returns from his vacation on December 10 he will be able to take up the task of reform with an intelligent conception of what is required. The governor has already announced that he purposes making a model state of New Jersey before he goes to Washington to undertake the larger and more important work of economy.

Speaking of his vacation, upon which he will embark the latter part of next week, the governor emphasized today the fact that he will not receive political or party mail during that time and that it will be useless for anyone to undertake to persuade him to do so.

"My friends have agreed to leave me alone during that period," he said. "If anyone calls I shall not tell him that I am away. Even Mr. McCormack and Mr. McAdoo understand this and they will remain away. I shall not talk politics under any circumstances, either for publication or for private consumption."

The governor was able to put in some hard work on his correspondence today after he locked himself in an upper room with his stenographer and he would not allow anyone to disturb him.

This afternoon the governor went to University Field and watched the last half of the Princeton-Yale football game, which resulted in a tie, and the entire game between Princeton and New York University. The President-elect occupied a seat in the bleachers with his brother-in-law, Professor Stockton Axon, of Princeton. Two rows above and just across the aisle were the governor's daughters, Jessie and Eleanor, accompanied by two Princeton students.

The governor wore a big check and a chorus of the college yell when he appeared in the runway and thereafter was the center of attention. Scores of graduates came up and greeted him.

When the game was over the players of the New York University eleven came upon the stand and shook hands with the governor and then gave him one of their uproarious yells. Not to be outdone, the Princeton boys gave him a "homecoming" yell. The governor was mightily pleased with his reception and left the grounds with a broad smile on his face.

NEW DEVICE TO EXCHANGE MAIL

Southern Pacific Company Is Installing Crane Invented by W. H. Jones.

The Southern Pacific is installing a new mail exchange device on the coast line of the system, which in recent years has been anything but a success. The device was invented by W. H. Jones, of Los Angeles, and will be installed on the coast line of the system. The device is a crane which will be used to exchange mail between the coast line and the main line of the system. THOUSANDS OF NEW YORK WOMEN JOIN THE PARADE

Suffragist Victories in Four States Are Cause of Big Celebration

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Shouting a Paean of Victory a solid suffrage phalanx, thousands strong, marched tonight down a shimmering asphalt highway in Fifth Avenue from Union to Union Square. It was the great torchlight parade organized to celebrate the map-changing events of last Tuesday, which added four states to the list of suffrage states.

This evening for more than an hour New York's best costumes, including the elaborate and elaborate costumes of the suffragists, were on display. For two miles a broad line of women, touching with its single glow the wonderfully diversified costumes of the marchers, moved and moved and illuminated the face of half a million spectators. The parade was a triumph for the suffragists, who were celebrating the victories in four states.

VICTORY IN 1915.

"Our slogan has been 'Victory in 1915.' Perhaps we shall change it to 'Victory in 1914.'"

If the same spirit displayed this evening is shown at the next suffrage assembly, upon the legislature it will be a doubly certain indeed who votes against the suffrage amendment.

With the spirit of a well-mannered army the hosts of suffrage—men and women, cavalry and infantry—swept down Fifth Avenue in a line formation so perfect that it reminded one of a scene on the West Point parade grounds.

The parade was led by Beatrice Forbes Robertson Hale, a great white charger. Her blonde locks flew in the breeze as she wheeled in behind her escort of mounted policemen at Union Square and a crowd of thousands gathered in the West Point parade grounds.

CONSTANTINOPLE TO FALL, HE SAYS

Premier Asquith Asserts That He Believes Allies Will Divide Spoils.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Speaking at the new Lord Mayor's inaugural banquet Prime Minister Asquith predicted the downfall of Constantinople. He said that the allies would divide the spoils of the city.

Asquith referred to the unsuccessful efforts of the powers to prevent the conflict and to the great changes the war had made in the map of Europe, and continued:

"In these anxious times it is sure to be able to announce that the relations of England with the other powers, without a single exception, were even more friendly and cordial."

The great powers are working together with a closeness, four and a frankness of discussion which is unparalleled and which may seem almost unbelievable to those who believe that because, for certain purposes, the powers have been and are ranged in different groups, they must therefore in a time of European crises, be arrayed in opposite camps.

"The map of Europe will have to be recast and nowhere is there a disposition to belittle the magnitude of the struggle or dispute the decisiveness of the result."

"England has no direct interest in the exact form that the political and territorial redistributions may ultimately take. The special relations of the other powers, geographical, economic, ethical and historical, with the scene of the conflict, are such that they cannot be expected not to claim a voice when the time comes for permanent settlement."

For the moment, so long as the state of belligerency continues, his majesty's government deprecates the raising and pressing isolated questions which if handled separately and at once may seem likely to lead to irreconcilable divergences, but which may assume a different, perhaps more practical aspect if they are reserved to be dealt with from a wider point of view in the general settlement."

FARMER IS HAPPY; HUNTER AS WELL

Rainy Weather Cause of Making Plowing Good and Scattering Ducks.

MARYSVILLE, Nov. 9.—The rainy weather has made not only the farmer happy but the sportsman also. The ground is in fine condition now for plowing and the ducks are scattered.

The Sacramento and Feather rivers have been rising gradually for the past few days and now the back water is in the fields and the ducks are making fine sport possible. The ducks and geese are waiting for just such conditions and now that the surrounding lands are ripe for the favorite sport many ducks and geese are being killed daily by the hunters.

The birds have been making their home in the adobe fields and overflow lands of the Sacramento river, but the recent rains have driven them into the fields.

Every little water hole and stream in the state now has a number of ducks and geese on them, and if indications can be counted upon they will remain for several days, and perhaps for some time.

The various hunting preserves will be busy places to the next few days, and the sportsmen are making hay while the sun is shining and are availing themselves of the opportunity to get all the sport they can.

According to some of the best sportsmen, the ducks are not plentiful in the interior of the state. A few are to be seen in the Delta and the Sacramento valley, but they are probably better off in the Delta.

COPPERAS BARRED BY STATE BOARD

All Canned Goods Containing Coloring Must Go Before January 1, 1913.

The sale of all canned goods in which copperas is used will be prohibited after January 1, 1913. This announcement has been made by the Department of Agriculture and it will be ruthlessly enforced. The department has been making a rigid investigation of this form of manufacture and it has decided to abolish the use of copperas.

The matter came up at a recent meeting of the State Board of Health of California and there was considerable discussion over the propriety of the order. Subject, but the members of the board came to the conclusion that there was nothing to do but stand by the order of the federal government and not permit any canned goods to be sold in California that contain copperas. The state of California has no option in the matter whatever their individual opinion.

This will be a hard blow to the processors of this state. For a long time it has been the practice of many canners to use copperas in the coloring of such vegetables as green peas, string beans, etc. Many of the canners have probably put in large winter stocks of these goods which they will now have to get rid of before the first of the year. If they are not sold before January 1 it will be illegal to sell them. This means that many businesses throughout the state who are in the line of canned goods will be forced to close their doors.

MAGGABEES PLAN 1915 GATHERING

Many Companies in Uniform May Be Brought Here During Fair.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Colonel George V. LeRoi of this city, of the Uniform Rank of the Knights of the Macabees of the World, held a conference yesterday with Manager James A. Barr of the Bureau of Conventions and Societies, to arrange for bringing to San Francisco in 1915 a large number of companies in uniform.

The Uniform Rank of the Knights of Macabees is organized in every State in the Union. The Knights have already formed thirty San Francisco clubs and are raising money by weekly or monthly payments to pay the full expenses of each company for the trip to the exposition city. The clubs in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio have already raised a large portion of the funds necessary and will have special trains to San Francisco in 1915.

From the returns that are already in, Colonel LeRoi estimates that 2,000 men in uniform will come here. Many of the companies will be accompanied by their bands and drum and pipe corps. A number of companies of the Uniform Rank of the Ladies of the Macabees will also come to this city during the exposition period.

A strong effort is being made by the Pacific coast delegates to secure for San Francisco in 1915 the quadrennial meeting of the Supreme Tent, Knights of the Macabees. These quadrennial sessions have always been held in Port Huron, Mich.

With the Uniform Rank in San Francisco in force, it is believed that the Supreme Tent may be induced to come to this city in 1915. The Uniform Rank of the Knights of California will have strong representation at the exposition. Companies are expected from Oakland, Vallejo, San Jose, Los Gatos, Sacramento, Stockton, Los Angeles, San Diego, Pasadena, Redondo, Redlands, Santa Cruz and Santa Ana.

VOTERS' VERDICT BRANDED CORRECT

Newspapers See Meritorious Victory for Oakland by Defeat of No. 6.

Editorial comment on the defeat of the sixth amendment as now appearing in the newspapers through the state indicates little surprise at the result and considerable gratification.

Here is what the Visalia Times says: "Probably the people of the state made no mistake in voting down the constitutional amendment. Evidence of the amendment declared that it was favored in Alameda county as well as in San Francisco, and opposed by the political ring in Oakland. Comparing the results from Alameda county with that from the other counties, it is evident that the backing of nearly everybody in the county is what our San Francisco friends told us was true.

The Fresno Republican says: "Of the eight propositions submitted to the people they passed the only two meritorious ones. And even these two were properly matters for the legislature and not for the referendum. They were submitted to the people not at anybody's request, but by the automatic action of our absurdly complex constitution. The Stockton Independent voices its sentiments as follows:

"The only amendments to win out in the state were the proposal to give school children of the elementary grades free textbooks and the one to make brigation bonds legal security. Both of these measures were of unusual merit and San Joaquin county voters, while 40,195 opposed it. Evidently the political ring of Alameda county has the backing of nearly everybody in the county if what our San Francisco friends told us was true.

FRUIT SHIPMENTS IN CARS ENDED

The Total Consignments From Newcastle for Season Is 1700 Carloads.

NEWCASTLE, Nov. 9.—Fruit shipments from Newcastle in cars lots are ended. The total for the season will be close to 1700 cars. Considering the immense crops in other sections and the competition in all markets during the entire season, the prices were all that could be expected. Notwithstanding the fact that the shipments of cars amounted to over 800 cars more than last season, the California prices were much higher than last year. Owing to heavy crops of peaches in all parts of the country this fruit sold low during the entire season. Plums sold well until the Italian Pruna crop from the Northwest began to arrive on eastern markets. Oregon, Washington and Idaho had immense crops of this variety that came in direct competition with the Italian Pruna.

There were also heavy crops of peaches and Giant Prunes, and as a consequence these varieties sold at lower prices than ever before known. Levi Clegg peaches were also low, both to canners and in eastern markets. The crop on the whole was one of the best ever handled out of Newcastle. Despite this and the glutted eastern markets, growers who have mixed orchards of peaches, pears and plums have had a fairly profitable season.

GERMANS OPEN
NEW HOME TODAY

Auditorium Will House All the Societies, Clubs and Organizations.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—The first meeting in the large auditorium of the German House, corner of Polk and Turk streets, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. All German organizations of this city and Alameda county will have delegates present. All stockholders and their friends will likewise be present. The meeting has been called to make preparations for the official opening of the German House, which will take place on Saturday, December 7. The celebration in honor of the completion of the new home for all the German societies, lodges and clubs of this city will be the most elaborate ever attempted by the German organizations of this city, continuing for nine days. The German House is a strictly "class A" building and has been erected at a cost of $500,000. The interior is being finished in marble and mahogany in the most splendid style.
The large auditorium contains one of the largest stages in this city. The banquet hall has a seating capacity for 650 people. The building contains a rathskeller, bowling alley, library, reading rooms, five social halls, rehearsal hall, lodge and meeting rooms of all sizes with all modern improvements and accommodations.
The architect, Frederick H. Meyer, who received the first prize among all competing architects of this city, has spared no pains to create a masterpiece.

The board of directors of the German House Association consists of the following: John Hermann, president;
John Pope, vice-president; Carl W.
Mueller, secretary; Captain L. Siebe,

GOVERNOR'S WIFE
ILL; NO CHEERING

Loud Demonstration Is For-bidden on Johnson's Arrival.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 9.—There will be no cheering or loud demonstration for Governor H. W. Johnson when he arrives in Sacramento tomorrow morning on the Overland Limited at 10:40 o'clock because of the information which reached Sacramento today from Ogden, Utah, that Mrs. Johnson, wife of the governor, is ill. In a message received at the state executive's office it was announced that while Mrs. Johnson is not in a serious condition, she is not strong enough to withstand any undue excitement or noise.

BUREAU OF ELECTIONS
NEEDED, SAYS JORDAN
Secretary of State Writes Second Article on Proposed Innovation

The article appearing below is the second published in THE TRIBUNE and written by Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan concerning his suggestions for laws governing elections. The former article appeared in THE TRIBUNE of Friday.

CHAPTER II.
(By FRANK C. JORDAN.)

With the adoption of constitutional amendments granting the right of suffrage to women, the initiative, referendum and the recall, also various direct popular measures, such as the Presidential primary law, the direct primary law, the advisory vote on United States Senators, and other legislative enactments of a local character, placing in the hands of the people the determination of their own local affairs by direct vote, there is emphasized the necessity of establishing a bureau in connection with this office, a bureau of elections to properly conduct and supervise the numerous elections which must be held annually.

This office is looked to for advice and direction on nearly all election matters, and the volume of correspondence bearing on the various phases of the California election laws requires the constant attention of two capable officers of the office, while the compiling of primary and general election laws and necessary blanks, the work in connection with the holding of elections and the compiling of election returns for public information and permanent State records is work of such importance and should have the undivided attention of a bureau to be established in connection with this office. I urgently request that the recommendation be given early attention.

SIMPLICITY AND POPULARITY.
Direct legislation can, in my opinion, be popularized by simplifying its operation, and I recommend that this be done as soon as possible. The primary and general election laws should be revised and amended in many respects, so as to simplify operation, make clear the laws, provisions and safeguard their constitutionality. It is the opinion of this office that the cost of conducting elections upon the submission of constitutional amendments and propositions for legal enactment can be reduced and better results obtained by changing the method of advertising, and of distributing literature required under the present laws.

These recommendations are the result of our experience in connection with the conduct of elections for the past two years, and while I would gladly make any suggestions, I have refrained from doing so, as I believe that a better general understanding of conditions can be arrived at by personal explanation to a legislative committee appointed for the purpose of improving our election laws, wherever possible.

Provision should be made for the publication quarterly of a roster of State officials, commissions and institutions, a list of city and county officials and notaries, commissioners of deeds and executive appointments. Such a publication is greatly needed, and the demand for information which it should contain is very great, and its publication would be appreciated by the public generally.

IRRIGATION LAWS.
A compilation of California's Irrigation and Reclamation laws would prove of special value to all persons interested in the improvement of our great land interests, and as these two subjects are rapidly forging to the front as important factors in the State's development, I recommend that attention be given to important work, and that provision be made for the publication of irrigation and reclamation laws in pamphlet form for handy distribution. In my judgment, the State can well afford to lay every assistance to encourage the work of irrigation and reclamation.
This office is in constant daily receipt of requests for a compilation of the laws of the State affecting corporations.

Dr. Hartman Answers Some Letters

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.

S. B. Hartman, M. D., Columbus, Ohio, known all over the world, probably has the largest correspondence of any doctor in this country. He has a corps of trained assistants to dispose of the letters received each day. Of course the doctor cannot personally answer all of these letters, but other doctors in his employ for over twenty-five years attend to the details. Occasionally, however, a letter is brought to the doctor himself for answer. A few of the letters answered personally by Dr. Hartman in his regular correspondence are given below as samples of the letters he is answering every day. The names and addresses of the writers of these letters of course are withheld as the doctor treats all professional correspondence with him as strictly confidential. No one need fear that his name or address will be used when writing to Dr. Hartman.

A MOTHER.—I have raised several children, and during the time when milk was their principal diet I have had trouble to keep their bowels regular. Constipation has been the only serious difficulty I have had to contend with. What do you suggest as a remedy for a child three years old that is continually constipated?

I believe my remedy Manalin is adapted to your wants exactly. To be sure, there are several other remedies for constipation, especially prepared enactment will increase the revenue of the State, it is calculated, over half a million dollars a year. Furthermore, the Secretary of State should be authorized to revoke or suspend the license and registration of anyone showing of incapacity, carelessness, willful violation of the law or rules of the road of anyone registered in his office as an owner or chauffeur.

CHANGES IN LAWS.
My last recommendation along corporate lines may be considered extremely radical, but I am satisfied that there is much to justify it. My suggestion is that the laws governing the filing of documents by domestic corporations in this office be revised to require that such documents be original, not copies showing of tampering, and that the original be filed with the County Clerk, excepting, of course, those laws requiring the filing of certified copies of decrees of dissolution, change of name, etc.

Under the system now in force, if not legally developed, that parties seeking to incorporate are forced to file articles and other documents with the County Clerk several times before a certified copy is accepted by this office for filing, the result being that the record in the County Clerk's office is confusing, to say the least. Granting that the objection made by this office to any given copy is valid, the filing of the original with the clerk is of no significance. Thus the legal effect of any document filed with the County Clerk depends on the acceptance by this office of a certified copy of such document.

Also, I believe that some of the County Clerk's clerks are inclined to be made on the face of the originals to meet objections raised by this office, though I know of no law authorizing an alteration to be made in any document after filing.

DUE TO ERROR.
Again, it frequently appears, from the copies presented for filing, that the original is defective, but later develops that the apparent defect was due to an error of the County Clerk in certifying.

The most natural argument to be made against the proposed change is that the originals should be filed with the County Clerk of the county where the corporation's principal place of business is located, inasmuch as the people of the county are, usually, the ones most concerned with the transactions of the corporation, and should therefore have access to the originals. But if this be the purpose of the present law, that purpose is defeated when a corporation changes its place of business, as provided by Section 321a, Civil Code, in which it is stated that when such change occurs the original records shall remain on file in the office of the clerk of the county where the corporation was first located.

It will be found that in many of the cases the law is strictly complied with, and, in fact, it seems only reasonable that the original record should be in the custody of the officer in whom the law vests the power to issue certificates of incorporation, and to pass on the legality of such records. The law is changed, of course, provide for the filing with the County Clerk of copies of the various documents, referred to by this office.

PROTECTION OF INVESTORS.
The acceptance and filing of articles of incorporation by the State is an important act. The issuance of a charter to incorporators is of value and in effect gives color of reliability and substantially. There should be some showing made evidencing sincerity of intention, actual investment and responsibility, and a bona fide intention to operate and endeavor for the benefit of stockholders and investors before the charter is granted. Too frequently it has come to the attention of this office that promoters and incorporators use the right given to act in a corporate capacity to the injury and loss of those who invest and trust their savings to them. Unprincipled men are using charters granted by the State as an aid to their swindling operations, and the subject has given serious consideration by the legislature, and in this connection would call attention to the requirements of the State of Kansas, known as the "Blue Sky" laws, which have resulted so beneficially.

A law should be enacted to take the place of Section 321, Civil Code, which was a month ago repealed. The title of which was a part of the bill contains no provision for the formation of corporations of the class with which it deals other for children, advertised. I am sure, however, that Manalin is just as good as any other remedy on the market, just as palatable, just as effective, and a bottle of Manalin contains two or three times as much medicine as the usual bottle of laxative for babies. In these days of high cost of living the price of medicine is worth looking after. Manalin can be obtained at any drug store.

A YOUNG MAN.—I have a letter from a young man who is apparently the victim of blood poison in its worst form. He is afflicted with deep ulcers, has taken the usual remedies from doctors, both patent medicines and regular doctors' prescriptions. He writes me:

Dear Doctor Hartman: Is there anything I can do? Must I be eaten up alive with the awful ulcers that I have brought on myself by absolute living? I can get no relief from doctors or drugs.

To this I made reply:

Dear Sir: I would send to the drug store at once and get a bottle of Lacupia. Begin by taking a tablespoonful after each meal and at bedtime. Continue this for one month, without interruption, and then write me and I will give you further advice. As to your diet, I would suggest the use of one fresh, raw vegetable every day, such as lettuce, celery, onion, radishes or the like. Also, use meat very sparingly, if at all. Fresh buttermilk with at least one meal a day. You can eat fish as freely as you like.

A YOUNG LADY.—A young lady writes: I have pimples on my face and shoulders, especially in the spring of the year, but more or less all the time. Sometimes a few blackheads will form, but mostly the pimples are large and red. Is there anything I can do to get rid of them?

Dear Madam: You should do everything possible to regulate the organs of your body. The bowels should be kept regular. The diet should consist largely of fresh raw vegetables, fruits, and outdoor exercise should be taken every day. Everything that worries or frets the mind should be strictly avoided. If you will follow this for one month and take a tablespoonful of Peruna before each meal, you may then write me again and I will give you further advice. I prefer not to recommend any local treatment for the pimples until after you have followed this advice for one month.

AN OLD MAN.—An elderly gentleman writes me:

Dear Doctor Hartman: I know how strong and well you are, although you are much older than I am. I envy you than those provisions concerning the formation of corporations sole and religious bodies composed of constituent associations having no common local base. On its face the title is incomplete, as Section 593, Civil Code, directs that incorporation shall be effected "as provided in this title."

SECTION INDEFINITE.

Section 362, Civil Code, relating to amendment of articles of incorporation, has been the subject of endless controversies during my incumbency, and I earnestly recommend that it be amended to show more clearly the legislative intent. I have no objection to its being about equally divided on the question of what the section requires, it being held on the one hand that the amended articles should state the number and names of the directors serving, and of those holding stock, at the time of the amendment, while others insist that there must be contained in the amended articles the same matter which appeared in the original articles in this reference. The question is as to whether or not the section confines corporations to amendments only as to those matters not excluded by the restricting clause appearing at its end.

The section should also be amended to require the president and secretary of the corporation to show in their certificate that the procedure, by virtue of which the articles were amended, was taken in accordance with the section's requirements.

MOTHER MARTIN IS VISITOR HERE

Is Head of the Order of Holy Names With Headquarters at Montreal.

Mother Martin of the Ascension arrived here at a late hour last night and was at once escorted to the convent of Holy Names near Webster street and Broadway where she will make her headquarters during the official visit to this section of the state. Mother Mary Luder accompanied her superior and is acting as companion and secretary.

Many friends and former pupils of the Mother will pay their respects during her stay here as she is well known, having spent four years in the state as mother superior before becoming mother general of the Order of Holy Names, with headquarters at Montreal, Canada. The occasion of the present visit is the tour of inspection of the many convents and other visits under the order of the Mother. In fact, it is believed that Mother Martin will remain in California, Washington and Oregon until next spring. A visit is paid by the mother general once every five years.

Tomorrow afternoon a reception will be tendered the Mother in the auditorium at the convent and college. Beautiful decorations consisting of American scenery roses, intermingled with palms and ferns, and an elaborate musical program presented. A song written by one of the sisters especially for a welcome to the Mother will be the feature of the afternoon. Miss Myrel Richards will deliver the address.

GIRL 14, KILLS MAN WHO TEASED HER

SUFFERN, N. Y., Nov. 9.—The village of Mahwah, N. J., near Suffern, was startled this morning when it was learned that Leo Hammond had been shot and killed by a girl 14 years of age, daughter of David Winters.
The girl is employed in the household of Mrs. John Harris, who lives on the island road, at which place Hammond resided. She was teased her, and told him if he did not stop she would blow off the top of his head. Hammond continued teasing and the girl reached for a shotgun, which she did not know how to use. She fired it toward Hammond, killed him.

Asking for

your magnificent health. Do you have any special system of physical culture to ward off old age? I am ten years younger than you are, and yet I am comparatively broken down by old age. What would you advise me to do?

My Dear Sir: I do not teach any system of physical culture. The physical culture I believe in is to have something to do every day that calls into play both the mental and physical powers. Something that you are interested in. Something you believe in. Eat frugally. At your age use meat sparingly. Make no use of narcotics, and eat heartily. Drink cold water freely. And if you wish to do exactly as I do, keep a bottle of Peruna in the house all the time. At the slightest appearance of cold, or sneezing, or cough, or chill, or stomach derangement, take a dose of Peruna before each meal for a few days until the symptoms disappear. Also use the cold water towel bath every morning, described in the Pills of Life, sent gratis.

FROM A DOCTOR.—A doctor writes me as to the remedy Katarnio.

I have been reading your articles in the newspapers lately and I see that you are putting up the old-time Peruna under a new name. While the old-time Peruna was in its glory I used to prescribe it frequently for my patients. But since the change made in the formula in which a laxative was added, I have not been certain whether I had better prescribe it or not. I am anxious, however, to see the Katarnio, for I believe it to be one of the best tonics I ever knew of. In doing this I can send my patients to the drug store, or must they go to McDonald-Steuhe Co., as indicated in your letter?

My Dear Doctor:—All wholesale druggists keep Katarnio. Any retailer who does not keep it in stock could easily get it of them. If for any reason your patients cannot get Katarnio, the Katarnio Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Peruna, Manalin and Lacupia manufactured by the Katarnio Company, Columbus, Ohio. Sold at all drug stores.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Many persons inquire for the old-time Peruna. They want the Peruna that their Fathers and Mothers used to take. The old Peruna is now called Katarnio. If your druggist or dealer does not keep it for sale write the Katarnio Company, Columbus, Ohio, and they will tell you all about it.

FEARS DESERTION;
DRINKS POISON

San Francisco Woman Hears
No Word From Fiance;
Attempts Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Because she believes the man whom she expected to marry, after she obtained a divorce from her husband, had deserted her, Mrs. Minnie Woods, of 271 Sixth street, swallowed a quantity of chloroform in an attempt at suicide at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Mrs. Woods was to receive her decree on Monday and was happy in the prospect of soon being able to wed the second man of her choice when the latter visited her three days ago. She has since failed to hear from him, and after writing a letter to her mother in Fresno, telling her of her sorrow, Mrs. Woods deliberately drained a vial of the drug. She was found almost immediately by Mrs. Le Garde, the landlady, and hurried to the Central Emergency hospital, Dr. Harrison, who treated her, believing that she will recover.

CHILDREN AND PARENTS IN DOUBLE ELOPEMENT

WILMINGTON, Nov. 9. The most singular double elopement in the history of this Gretna Green occurred here recently.

Isaac Holt, aged 36, of 800 New Wild low street, Trenton, N. J., a railroad engineer, and Mrs. Minnie Crowther Scott, a widow of the same city, were married first by Rev. George L. Wolfe. Soon afterwards the couple met the woman's daughter, Miss Elizabeth Scott, aged 19, and Harry Beatty, aged 22, of Trenton.

The daughter gasped and asked her mother what she was doing here. The mother admitted she had just been married by Rev. Mr. Wolfe at the preacher's house.

"Why are you going there now for the same purpose," the daughter replied. Her mother consented.

COLONEL'S PLURALITY IS 879

Sixty-Nine Precincts in State Unreported in Presidential Canvass

It Is Not Expected That Lead of Roosevelt Will Be Materially Changed

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Theodore Roosevelt has a plurality of 879 votes over Woodrow Wilson in California, according to returns available tonight.

These returns leave sixty-nine precincts in the State unreported. The figures are: Roosevelt, 281,644; Wilson, 280,765; Roosevelt's plurality, 879.

Returns from additional precincts that came in today accounted for the bulk of the gain in Roosevelt's plurality of Friday which stood at 728. Some of the additional figures, however, came from recounts.

In Mono county five of its eight precincts gave Roosevelt 102 votes, against 184 for Wilson. The total vote showed Roosevelt 133, against 103 for Wilson—a gain for the Progressive candidate of 31 and a loss for Wilson of 55.

It is not expected by the Progressives that the returns from the 69 unreported precincts will materially change the lead of Roosevelt, although the officially certified count may make some slight difference.

DEMOCRATS HOPEFUL.

Optimistic Democrats have not abandoned hope that Wilson will carry the state. They point out that the majority of the 69 missing precincts are of Democratic complexion, and

Dying Man Tells of Theft Conspiracy

S. Libicki, Formerly of This City, Dies at Monrovia, in South.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—S. Libicki, a former resident of Oakland several months ago, died at Monrovia yesterday. Before he died Libicki made a confession to Ernest Warman, his nurse, that he had participated with two other men in a robbery and attempted murder of a wealthy merchant at San Francisco in which the three men secured $1500.

Warman, it is understood, was pledged to notify the proper authorities. He left Monrovia today and is said to have taken a train for San Francisco. Warman is said to be in possession of the names of Libicki's accomplices in the crime and their whereabouts.

Second Cousin of Gov. Wilson Is Cow-Puncher

CHICO, Cal., Nov. 9.—"I am the second cousin of Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, and I went to Princeton University with him in bygone days, but the only satisfaction I get in this life is at least a good strain of blood in me, even though I am a cowpuncher and doing odd things for a living," said Harry G. Wilson of this city today, when visiting with a number of his Chico friends and discussing the election of Woodrow Wilson to the presidential chair. The Governor's cousin has been known for the last quarter of a century in Chico by the name of Hayswood Wilson, becoming the nation's executive,

TELEPHONE RATES ARE LOWERED

Reduction Affects Tolls on Oakland Side of Bay and on Peninsula

Railroad Commission Completes Plan of Readjustment in City Area

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—The railroad commission has effected another readjustment of telephone rates in the San Francisco-Oakland metropolitan district. The first adjustment embraced the reduction of the trans-bay rate between San Francisco and Oakland from 15 cents to 10 cents. This has now been followed by a series of reductions affecting rates on the Oakland side of the bay and on the San Francisco peninsula.

The rates for particular person service have been readjusted by the commission as follows:

PLAY GAME IN SEA OF MUD

A rush for the ball as it was thrown from the side line. Scene at the California-Stanford football game yesterday. The lower part of the picture shows some of the fair rooters who defied the stormy weather to witness the annual Rugby contest.

PEART CHOSEN CAPTAIN OF VARSITY

Squad Honors Veteran of Several Big Contests.

Immediately after the close of yesterday's California-Stanford football game the members of the California varsity squad gathered in the training quarters at Berkeley and unanimously elected Stirling Benjamin Peart to be captain of next year's varsity. Peart is a senior at the university who will return to college next year to pursue graduate work.

In the game yesterday Peart's great defensive play was one of the most important factors in the result of the match. Owing to the adverse conditions under which the contest was played, the fullback had more than his usual large share of the responsibility, and Peart did all that could possibly have been asked of him.

For four years Peart has been a leading figure in California Rugby. In 1909 he was a substitute on California's first victorious Rugby team, and in 1910 he earned his first "big C" at the position of wing three-quarters. BLEACHERS PACKED WITH ENTHUSIASTIC THOUSANDS

Tie Score Ends Hard Fought Contest Waged in Field of Mire

(By DOUGLAS FISKINE.)

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Nov. 9.—A tie score of 3 to 3 ended this afternoon the twenty-second annual intercollegiate football game between the University of California and Stanford. No contest between the universities was ever played on a more miserable field, mud of a depth unimagined and water in many places 6 inches deep covering the entire ground.

On the sidelines the mud had been piled high with scrapers in hopes of bettering the condition of the field, and into this extra accumulation of mud equally muddy players were from time to time shot as the game progressed.

The men soon became unrecognizable under their coats of slush, and at every intermission were forced to the sidelines, where trainers dashed water over their heads and from a mud barrel.

But it was a great game—a hard-fought game between equally matched and spartanlike players. Naturally the play was slow. Slippery field, ball and players made more than his usual large share of the responsibility, and Peart did all that could possibly have been asked of him.

WIND SERIOUSLY WOUNDS FAMED LE CONTE OAK

Branch of Sturdy Tree Ripped From Trunk; Campus Mourns.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Nov. 9.—Damage was done on the campus this morning by the terrible windstorm that will cause the regret of all the alumni and undergraduates of the University when the wind snapped from the trunk one of the finest branches of the Le Conte oak. The branch torn off by the wind was the northwestern one which extended almost to the bank of Strawberry creek. The branch was broken off within four feet of the trunk and repairs such as have been made with other wounds of the giant tree cannot be made in this case.

TREE DEDICATED IN 1898.

The Le Conte oak is the largest and best known of the giant oak trees that grace the western portion of the University campus. It was dedicated by the class of 1898 to the late President John and Joseph Le Conte May 14, 1898.

For some time after the dedication it bore in its first crotch a tablet not only to the Le Contes but to the University, caused a dry rot to set in and it had to be removed to the ground. Since that time various troubles have attacked the tree and the best efforts of the department of agriculture have several times been necessary to prevent decay and death.

MASSACRE BEGINS IN CAPITAL

Constantinople Is in Flames; Kurds Put Christians to the Sword

Bulgars Prepare for the Final Rush On Forts Guarding City of Constantine

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The reign of terror—expected and dreaded as the climax of the Balkan war, the last act of the Turk in Europe before his banishment—has begun in Constantinople.

Dispatches from Bucharest, Vienna and Constanta, Roumania, say Kurd soldiers have attacked the Christians in the Galata quarter of Constantinople and their depredations are spreading to other parts of the city in spite of the efforts of the authority to stop them.

CAPITAL SEEMS DOOMED.

Several buildings in the Turkish capital are reported in flames tonight. Constantinople seems doomed tonight. The call for the holy war issued by the Sheikh Ul Islam has set thousands of fanatics wild and they are slaying women and children wherever they find them unprotected.

The fall of the Turkish capital is probably only a matter of hours, as the Bulgarians, aided by fresh Serbian troops, are waging a fierce and loyal attack on the famous Bosphorus forts, the only remaining defense of the Porte.

FOUR KINGS TO BE THERE.

The sultan has determined not to be taken alive and will offer no security for the 600,000 Christians provided the Bulgarians enter the capital. That such entry will be made is confirmed by a dispatch from Vienna, stating that King Nicholas of Montenegro, King Peter of Serbia and King George of Greece have formally accepted the invitation of King Ferdinand to accompany him when he takes formal possession of and occupies the city.

The embassies in Constantinople are all under guard and the warships standing in the harbor are preparing to land troops, if they have not already landed them, and take refuge on board.

BUILDINGS IN FLAMES.

"Incendiarism and slaughter" are the words used at Constantinople describing the outbreak.

Incendiarism and slaughter" are the words used at Constantinople describing the outbreak.

My sovereign will await death in his palace and I in my office."

Turkey, according to the grand vizier, has resigned herself to the inevitable and while her officials will do all in their power to preserve order, they can guarantee nothing.

Several detachments of well-equipped Turkish troops who have not yet joined the looting and pillaging rabble are guarding the banks and embassies.

DISEASE SPREADS.

Soldiers of the sultan in the forefront of the retreat before the driving Bulgarians are arriving in Constantinople and camping in the streets. Even the call to a holy war has failed to infuse many of these human wrecks to new energy. There is but little food for them and no organized medical force to care for their wounds. Disease is rife among them, and the

PASSES SPURIOUS CHECKS, BUT KEEPS OUT OF JAIL

AN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—How Mr. —, posing as the attorney for a certain concern in town and having offices with it, can pass bad checks and escape arrest and consequent exposure is cause for wonder and comment among those conversant with the facts.

About forty such checks has he passed, so he can in all truth be said to have a penchant for issuing "phony" commercial paper. True, the checks are for small sums, they ranging, so far as is known, from $5 up to $20. But they are cashed by people who can ill afford to lose even such sums. For instance, a girl cashier of a certain store accepted one of this man's checks for $15. When it came back from the bank stamped "no funds" her employer took the amount from her $75 salary. She has vainly tried to get the sum back from the fellow. She has been advised to swear out a warrant against him, but for some reason has not seen fit to do so. In one or two cases, it is said, he has "made good" bad checks for $5 when threatened with arrest. It is known also that he has no right to represent himself as a practicing attorney here, for he has not been admitted to the bar in California. He is afraid to apply for admission. Some lawyers of the city know his Eastern record. Not long ago he was disbarred by the Supreme Court of an Eastern State on two counts. One was for dishonest conduct as a lawyer. The other was for fraudulent representations at the time he was admitted by the court to practice. A properly authenticated document showing these facts has just been received in town from an official of that court. One of these days this fellow will certainly arrive at the end of his string.

Men Who Look Like Royalty

Leopold Michels, millionaire merchant and a member of the company operating the St. Francis hotel, is back from a long tour of Europe pleased mightily that over there, like frequently has been the case in San Francisco, he was reminded of his strong facial resemblance to the late King Edward. This likeness is accentuated by the similarity of the cut of beard to that of the late royalty. Colonel J. C. Kirkpatrick of the Palace is the other prominent man in town who also is not pursued by little glooms when people say he strongly looks like the king. His friends think he comes closer in that respect than Michels because of a figure like the king possessed in addition to beard and facial traits. There is a book-keeper for several small stores down near the ferry depot who is even a stronger resemblance to Edward than those two rich men. His name is Wallace and he still retains his British citizenship. Humble in the social and financial scale, he is even more proud of his likeness to his late ruler than Michels and Kirkpatrick, and anybody who calls attention to the fact in his presence is sure of an invitation to smoke or drink. This hospitable habit has long been using up his monthly salary, for a certain coterie has for several years been preying on his weakness and sending friends around to play the same stunt. Kirkpatrick and Michels' intimates have been at pains to tell them all about Wallace being the local champion in this respect and how generous he is when reminded of the fact.

What City Directories Reveal

R. L. Polk of Detroit, who makes a specialty of compiling and publishing city directories for many American and Canadian cities and towns, including a number in California, was at the Palace the other day. Polk is a walking encyclopedia of the directory industry from the time the first one was printed in New York City in 1786. Copies of the latter are now rare, selling for as high as $2750 to collectors of books. He has one of these copies and some of the first issues of other large American cities. Both because of the historic fire of that year, which destroyed most of them, and as the city becomes greater and older, he thinks the San Francisco directory of 1906 will command a good, stiff price. He has one in his collection. Between the covers of these books of interminable names, Polk finds a story of odd interest. He can philosophize on why the directories of every place always contain more names beginning with the letters of the first half of the alphabet than with the last half and why under the letters S or J more people thrive and have their being than under any other of the twenty-four. Two of the oddest names he ever ran against were those of R. U. Seldomrich, to be found in the New Orleans directory, and A. B. See, which is in that of Cambridge, Mass., for last year. Foreigners from Russia, Italy and Southern Europe are giving the directory compilers many strange and fantastic combinations of letters for their names. More of the good old American names are to be found in the Southern States than anywhere else in the country.

Good Health Due to Handball

The distinguished prelate, Cardinal John M. Farley of New York, who has been visiting the city for the first time this week, was in his college days in New York State a great devotee of sports. He was particularly fond of handball as an exercise, calling forth as it does the quick use of all parts of the body. A San Francisco priest acquainted with much of the life of Cardinal Farley remarked last evening that the latter ascribed much of his good health and vigor to the handball practice of his early days when a young man at school and college. The same authority says the prelate combines in a rare and attractive manner a superb dignity and a ready sense of the humorous and the jest. Commenting upon the necessity of the shortness of his visit to the city and coast last Monday to some San Franciscans who had just been introduced to him, the cardinal remarked that he hoped they would not put him in the class of some Americans his friend, Eugene Higgins, once spoke about. He went on to explain, seeing their inquisitive looks.

"Well, my friend thinks we should always travel leisurely, taking plenty of time to see and observe, and not rush on schedule time here and there. Once in an Italian picture gallery he heard one American woman ask another:

"Is this Florence or Venice?"

"What day's today?" the other asked in turn.

"Wednesday," was the reply.

"Then it's Florence."

'Chicken Flip' Is Latest Rag

So it is the "Chicken Flip" dance that ever delightful and daring Eleanor Sears has been essaying for the pleasure and bewilderment of some of her guests at her Boston home.

A dispatch in last Sunday's papers from the Hub mentioned a dinner and dance Miss Sears gave after the college football game on Saturday at which the chicken flip was the piece of resistance, as it were. No description of this fleeting bit of ultra-modern terpsichorean art was vouchsafed in the press dispatch. Presumably it was the same thing she indulged in quietly when last on the coast as the house guest for several months of Mrs. Francis J. Carolan. She called it then the "chicken reel" and she credited its originator as being her friend, Mrs. Reggie Vanderbill, who was represented as considering it a worthy successor to the "grizzly bear." Probably it is such, and then not so much, either. I recall what one of those who saw it at that time and probably danced it said it was like. The dancers execute motions that resemble a chicken's walk and then clasp each other in a whirl and round of two-steps. It evidently did not win much local popularity, for there was little or no mention of "chicken reels" in the exclusive set either down at Burlingame or in town.

Something the King Couldn't Do

A strong character is Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance and chairman of the Woman Suffrage party, who is in the city on her way home from a notable tour of the world. Mrs. Catt, the late Susan B. Anthony, Belva Lockwood and Dr. Anna Shaw are no doubt the four leading characters woman suffrage has so far produced in this country. She was in California with Susan B. Anthony and Dr. Shaw in 1896, making a strong fight for the ballot for women. It failed then but now she is glad to be in the State once more and see all her sisters enjoying the right to vote. In Norway, where women have long enjoyed political rights, Mrs. Catt had a great reception in the early months of her tour. In her scrapbook, which is part of her baggage, there is a clipping from the Woman's Journal of Christiania which states in part on the eve of her departure:

"Her whole stay in our capital proved to be a splendid homage from the country of woman suffrage to the noble leader of a noble cause. It was a homage not only from the women and champions of the cause but from all official Norway."

Another selection from Mrs. Catt's scrapbook tells of a dinner given to her in London by Mrs. Millicent Garrett Fawcett, president of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, the widow of the 17th Postmaster-General. Among the guests were the Duchess of Marlborough, Countess of Selbourne, Ellen Terry and Ladies Strackley, Rayleigh, Betty Balfour, De la Warre, McLaren and Miss Hay. One of the stories told by Mrs. Catt at this banquet which afforded considerable amusement was that relating to King George's little nephew, the Crown Prince of Norway, who, on a recent visit to England, heard a good deal about what was being done there to get women the vote. It seemed to him a great waste of energy, for one day he asked in some surprise:

"Why doesn't Uncle George give the vote to the women of England and save all this trouble, as we have done?"

Death Cut Short Brilliant Career

The writer personally knew for many years General Homer Lea, co-worker with Dr. Sun Yat Sen in liberating China from the Manchus, who died in his Southern California home a few days ago. Even prior to 1898, when a high school lad, Lea drilled small companies of enthusiastic young Chinese with broomsticks as rifles and swords in Los Angeles so as to prepare them to aid their country gain its freedom. Later on he did the same thing in Chinatown here. Both when at high school in Los Angeles and as a student at Stanford later on, he talked about and spoke from the rostrum on China as a republic with the zeal of a fanatic. His entire life he was obsessed with this idea. On leaving Stanford, he sought out Dr. Sen, who then had a price on his head, and soon became his confidant and hearty supporter. Previous to that, they had got to know each other through secret friendships in Chinatown of this city and by means of correspondence. Lea was with Sen in London when he got his first big loan to aid in financing the revolution which turned out to be so great and speedy a success that it will always rank as an historic epoch. As a friend and soldier of the new China and an associate of its central character, Dr. Sen, General Lea will always be remembered. He showed tactical and militant genius under hard conditions, helping to overcome them just as he succeeded in overcoming the handicap of poverty and a birth deformity that made of him a hunchback. He wrote three books, which will not endure. One is a brilliantly lurid novel, "The Vermillion Pencil," which is an attack on the missionaries in China. In "The Valor of Ignorance" he sounds an alarm against Japanese schemes against California and the Pacific Coast of this country. Both cannot be fairly considered other than works of fiction. Recently his third book, "The Day of the Saxon," was published. It contains a warning to Great Britain against the designs of Russia on India, Japanese aggression in the Pacific and Germany's longing for sea outlets by absorbing Denmark, Holland and the Netherlands. He urges the British to continue improving their navy and army if they would maintain the integrity of the empire. His book finds much to criticize in those people but expresses a hope that they will be ready to meet aggression when it comes.

Men of '49 Rapidly Passing

The death of those two well-known California pioneers, Judge Aylett R. Cotton of this city and David E. Barre of Belmont, calls attention to the fact that the men of '49 are rapidly passing away. It was a picked lot of men who reached California in those pioneer days. Only those who had the grit to spend months at sea or cross Indian infested plains and mountains succeeded in getting here. They did much towards the expansion and development of the United States. Most of them were young men. The man among them who was over 30 was an exception. Lots of people at that time considered California a legendary place whose very existence was in some doubt. The change from that time to the present in one single lifetime is almost unconceivable. Chicago was, of course, a small place in the East at that time. It was referred to occasionally and but few people knew enough about it to dream of the wonderful development that has since taken place. The pioneers were privileged to take part in an epoch of history unlike anything that had gone before, and it is something whose like can never be seen again. There may be other countries still to be developed, but there is no place left in the world where such a spreading of civilization over an enormous wilderness can take place in so few decades as it did in the Western United States. The forty-niners, as they went west in their prairie schooners, saw miles upon miles of fertile country whose existence had been scarcely known, and they were the most important factor in developing the entire West as well as the Pacific Coast. But with the passing of all these men, their children, as members, will continue the famous Society of California Pioneers, an organization unique in the history of the world. It was a wise step and fine sentiment to thus perpetuate a society that is so linked with the romantic story of this State.

Occident Fancies Oriental Delicacies

A Chinese importer of edible birds' nests, Wong Hi Kai, who has his place of business on Dupont street, near Jackson, says the demand for this table delicacy by his countrymen in all parts of the United States is brisker today than ever it was. Chinese are very fond of a soup made from this article and pay as high as from $9 to $12 for a packet containing forty nests. They come in packets done up securely in strips of rattan. The prices mentioned are for the best quality, the latter depending upon the amount of mucus the nests contain. This mucus is secreted by the large salivary glands in the throats of the little birds, the sea-swallow, which build them. Wong Hi Kai says the birds are robbed of their nests three times a year. The third nest is the poorer quality and much the cheapest in price therefore. He gets his market supply by way of Hongkong from Northern Borneo and Siamese islands. In those parts of the world, companies lease the privilege for harvesting the nests and for many years they have in this way been conducting a great industry. Because of the dried mucus in the nests which make them edible, the packages look like so much isinglass. Kai has handled this commodity for many years along with sea slugs and other Chinese articles of food, and he is fond of eating as well as selling them. A well-fed, sleek Mongolian, he claims to be an epicure and mentions bird nests' soup and candied pork as two dishes to be fond of. Of course he also includes tea, but insists it is the kind and brew yielding a delicious aroma that the white man is, as a rule, totally ignorant of.

Frear's Friends Win Dinner

A dispatch from Washington under date of November 2 stated that President Taft will appoint Governor William F. Frear of Hawaii to a second term, Secretary of the Interior Fisher, having returned from the islands with a favorable report about his personal and official conduct. If that is correct, R. P. Rithet and several other friends of Frear in the Pacific Union Club win a dinner from several other members who bet the Hawaiian delegate in Congress, Jonah K. Kalaniano'ole, otherwise known as Prince Cupid, would succeed in having Frear ousted. It is understood the dinner is for a party of twenty. Prince Cupid, Sam Parker and their clique have made strenuous efforts against

"CHICKEN FLIP" IS NOT NFW TO THE BLINCUMITES

Frear's reappointment. His term expired about a year ago, but he has continued in office pending Taft's endeavors to find out if there was any reason for not giving him a second term. His enemies were so active and persistent that finally the President sent Fisher to Honolulu to look into the matter and report to him his recommendations. In reporting in favor of the governor, Fisher is represented as saying that he is convinced the delegate to Congress made his charges in good faith but that they were based on "misunderstandings and misinformation." Prince Cupid's principal charge against Frear was that his land policy did not favor a settlement of the islands by American citizens and that he was being unduly influenced by the sugar barons. Cupid is the pride and hope of the native element and his following would like to have seen him in the governorship. To do both him and Parker justice, however, both have always denied they made a fight against Frear in order that one of them might be his successor.

Newspapermen in Good Fortune

Joseph E. Cassell, one of the most versatile of San Francisco newspaper men during the past fifteen or eighteen years, has fallen into an inheritance in Philadelphia and has gone there to make his future home. Cassell is a star writer of any kind of a newspaper story and when "Doc" Leahy was at the head of the old Tivoli home of comic opera, Joe's jingling rhymes were often sung from the stage to the delight of the big audiences of those good old days. Cassell had made a name for himself in Denver before coming to this city. Apropos of the Cassell good fortune, another newspaper man of former days here, Gladding Goring of Chicago, has just obtained $75,000 by his father's will. Twenty-five years ago Goring's father died, bequeathing this sum in his will, but made the strange provision that the son should not come into possession of it until he was fifty years of age. He reached his fiftieth year last week and got the long-delayed money the same day. Goring was connected with most of the daily papers here twenty-five years ago and at one time was a member of The Tribune's staff. Later he went with the firm of W. R. Grace & Co. He became one of the firm's most valuable office men because of his ability to prepare reports on all branches of its business. His newspaper training made him just the man it was looking for and he traveled extensively for the firm to all parts of the world for that particular purpose. Of late years, however, he has been associated with the Lake City press.

Will Build Fine Clubhouse

Members of the Jewish colony, who constitute the Beresford County Club down on the peninsula, near Fair Oaks, are liberally subscribing towards a fund of $100,000 with which to put up a modern and permanent club house, one that will take rank with the best in the West. The report that the members were seriously thinking of purchasing the Peninsula hotel and grounds, near San Mateo, for a club never had any foundation in fact. The members are wealthy enough to swing such a proposition, involving as it does something like $700,000, but never gave the idea of so extravagant an undertaking the least thought. It is not as good a proposition for a country club as the one they have decided upon. The Menlo, Burlingame, Marin, Claremont and El Cerrito country club houses in the bay region and the planned new one at Santa Barbara all have fine architectural and other features which in part may be duplicated by the Beresford Club people. Their architect has been studying these points and also suggesting others in harmony with the locality. Particular attention will be given to spacious, open verandas. When finished it will be a notable addition to country clubdom in Northern California. It will be finished in ample time to be used as a hospitable spot for friends of the members from the East and Europe who will be drawn to the coast by the opening of the 1915 exposition.

Millionaires Stick Over $20,000

Millionaire Charles Sweeney and Banker Antoine Borel have ceased their negotiations by which the former tried to purchase the latter's fine residence on the corner of Washington and Franklin streets, once the home of the L. L. Bakers and later on of William J. Dingee during his career as a cement king.

What Borel paid Dingee for the home is not known. Dingee is said to have given the Bakers $125,000 in cash for the place. As the story runs, Borel first asked $175,000 from Sweeney and then came down to $150,000. From the latter figure he would not budge. On his part, Sweeney first offered $120,000 and then came up to $130,000 in cash. The $20,000 difference between the two wealthy and shrewd bargainers seemingly could not be bridged, so the deal has been called off altogether. Now the Sweeneys plan to rent a home, with the ultimate intention of building their own mansion. They are relatives of Mrs. Eleanor Martin and great friends of the Jesse Grants, who have taken a house in town for the winter. With the Martins and Grants they want to do considerable entertaining during the winter and spring months and must have a palatial home for that purpose. Furthermore, they are to make their residence here permanent. That was the principal reason for seeking to buy the Borel place. The banker has pronounced opinions about the value of his residence and of residential property in general in that part of the city. He considers $150,000 a fair price and said he could not see his way clear to go a cent under it. Had the deal gone through it would have been the same

Extending the Olive Branch.

Alluding to the Bulletin's editorial abusing Los Angeles for giving a majority against the annexation amendment, the San Francisco Call says:

"Lately Los Angeles has been the object of the splenetic journalism's unpleasant attentions. San Francisco is advised that the southern city wantonly and evilly devoted itself to killing the consolidation amendment wherein lay the only immediate hope of the greater metropolis, and is more or less slyly urged to revenge itself by blocking Los Angeles in the next Legislature."

"Candidly, we do not believe Los Angeles, as a community, did anything of the kind. It ought to be fresh in the mind of every San Franciscan how magnificently and readily that city swung in behind San Francisco when we were battling to get the exposition; how nobly and fully it answered our cry for help in the time of our greatest need; how, only the other day, it sent us up a flying squadron of its picked progress-makers to preach to us anew the gospel of amity and unity and to tell us how the miracle of Los Angeles growth and Los Angeles prosperity was wrought."

THE TRIBUNE would like this much better if the generous spirit it breathes toward Los Angeles were extended to Oakland and her sister cities. On this side of the bay, the general feeling is one of friendship for San Francisco. We would like to co-operate with our neighbors across the bay, but they have rebuffed our efforts to co-operate and chilled our good feelings by insisting that we must be subjugated. A war for annexation has been waged at a most inopportune time, with the result that San Francisco has well-nigh alienated the good-will of her near neighbors, who were only too willing to assist in promoting the welfare of the entire bay region, San Francisco included. The Call is apparently awake to the harm that has been done, and the evil of persisting in a policy that can only embitter where friendship and aid are needed. However, its closing paragraph sounds better:

"Let whoever picks quarrels with our friends and neighbors feed alone upon the poisonous fruit of that tree. San Francisco seeks to sow accord and reap accomplishment. This city wants to be at peace with its sister cities—wants to help them and to have their help."

Amen, to that! We want to be at peace with San Francisco—want to help her and have her help. But there can be no peace so long as San Francisco persists in her scheme of annexation—persists in interfering with our domestic affairs and trying to extend her political dominion over us.

So long as Oakland is compelled to fight for municipal independence, she cannot help San Francisco nor receive help from her. There is division and enmity where there should be unity and harmony. San Francisco will be the gainer by allowing the annexation agitation to drop and coming together in a cordial spirit of mutual helpfulness.

The Sword of the Most High.

The Westerner fails to understand the true import of Oriental conflict who does not sense its basic principle of religious fervor. With the Japanese in their war against Russia strode into the fray a fetishistic reverence for their emperor that was a religion in itself. Their charge into battle was the advance of a body of monks. They fell with banzais on their lips that sounded less like curses than prayers.

Comparable is the fervor that drives the Turks into conflict in the present war against the Balkan confederates. His cause is the cause of heaven. He is barring the infidel from the sacred tombs of Allah, not the Serbian or the Greek from Turkey. In short, he is a devotee first, a patriot afterwards.

Thus the Turkish soldier leaves his home just as the Japanese left his. He has no criticism to make of a nation that has caused the misery he must abet, because the nation stands to him not so much a fatherland as a lieutenant of Allah, and he has no quarrel with the Most High. The women bid him farewell from the door with glad eyes as a western mother blithely hands over her son to the ministry of our Jehovah.

His outlook upon the Balkan adversary is dominated by the same genius. Greece, Bulgaria, Serbia, Montenegro: In his eyes they are provinces that have apostatized, and apostasy with him is supreme degradation. Their people must be won again to forsake Islam, or smitten hip and thigh. He has no other duty than this, no claim upon him more sacred, no inspiration so compelling.

Now, no matter how the Westerner deploras the sanguinary results of such devotion, he cannot deny its validity. The Turk's right to his religion is as inalienable as the American's right to his patriotism. If the army of Columbia is the incarnation of patriotism, the army of the Sublime Porte is the avatar of Allah. And if we quarrel with a religious program that directs territorial aggrandizement for the glory of the faith, we must deal charitably with the critics of a patriotic program that directs the same course for the glory of the flag. Thus again we come upon the conclusion that morals after all are chiefly a matter of geography.

Our Beneficent Longitude.

Residence upon the Pacific Slope bestows a unique advantage, a remark upon which is suggested by the recent election. Due to the fact that our time is three hours earlier, moment for moment, than New York's, two hours earlier than Chicago's, we enjoy the pleasure of knowing what is happening in those cities and their neighbors before they know it themselves.

THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE printed soon after 3 o'clock last evening the result of voting in Maine that the people of the cities which reports were made did not know until after 6 o'clock the same evening. Extras on the streets here by 8 o'clock contained the results of the election. That New Yorkers and Chicagoans did not turn until they left their theaters close on to midnight.

It is true, of course, that no event can be chronicled even in the mercurial west until it has happened. Still we are so placed in the continent that, compared to the times of rising and retiring, the receipt of news is much to our advantage. All of which shows the news value of an evening paper.

Six years ago President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California was subjected to considerable criticism on the part of undergraduates and alumni of the university for his attitude in forcing the game of Rugby football upon the students. The plea was made by staunch supporters of the old game, or American football, that California should await action on the part of the national committees which was then revising the rules in the eastern universities with a hope of eliminating some of its more dangerous features and providing for open play. Objection was met with argument that California should not wait for the east to act, but, indeed, go ahead and let the east follow. So spoke President Wheeler and Professor Henry Morse Stephens; in fact, the students were confronted with the Rugby game or none at all. They accepted the situation as it appeared. The first year the game did not take well with the public, but the next succeeding years it grew in favor until today it is once more the great social and athletic event of the year for both universities. Whether it is the game itself or the spectacular features which the students contribute that induce the public to bid on tickets for admission is a matter of debate. At any rate the east has had five years in which to study the game and as yet it has failed to "get in line."

A REAL TURKEY TROT

The Proposed Children's Hospital.

The movement to secure for Alameda county a Children's Hospital where unfortunate innocents may receive every benefit of modern science deserves and undoubtedly will receive the generous support of the public. There is no charity so sweet, none so irresistible in its appeal as that which aims to give to childhood its full measure of happiness. Humanity, engrossed in selfish pursuits, will ignore sometimes starving men and helpless women, but the cry of a suffering child pierces the land and brings applause in the maddened maelstrom.

The famous case of "Smiling Joe" is an instance of the power of a stricken child to sway the nation. "Smiling Joe" was a crippled little inmate of a hospital in New York City. Though his back was broken and he lay always in the one position strapped flat to a board, he never stopped smiling bravely. Finally the photograph of "Smiling Joe" and his story were printed and circulated over the country, and into New York City came a flood of silver and gold from all over America. With the money thus raised, there was built upon Staten Island one of the most magnificent Children's Hospitals in the world.

Alameda county has many "Smiling Joe's," little crippled boys and girls who are struggling bravely under the handicap of broken limbs and disordered bodies. In their behalf women of Oakland have called upon their sisters in the east bay cities to aid them in an appeal to the people of the county. During the first week in December there will be four benefit performances of a popular extravaganza, the tickets to be sold to the public and the proceeds to be devoted to the Children's Hospital Fund. Probably there will be other means suggested for raising the necessary money.

Donations, subscriptions and the purchase of tickets for benefit performances, with such an end in view, as the building of a hospital for children, should be regarded as a privilege which every resident of Alameda county should seek to enjoy. There should be no need of soliciting funds for such an institution.

Alameda county has taken the lead on the Pacific Coast in the excellence of her public schools, her parks and her playgrounds. Health and wealth are hers, it remains only for her to care for her unfortunate little ones in the same way that she has provided for those who are strong and healthy.

From the way that the season opens there is promise that the State is not to suffer for lack of moisture this year. To date there has been nearly seven times the amount of rainfall as compared to this date last year. What at that time threatened to result in serious conditions among the farmers in irrigation districts did not turn out so badly after all in spite of the calamity howlers. Things will be evened up this year if the present rate holds up to its average and prosperity is bound to prevail in California. Bounteous crops, good pastures and a smiling sunshine when it is needed will counteract any artificially imposed conditions. Streams that have dwindled will soon be completely refreshed and reservoirs that began to sound hollow will soon be full again. These are some of the things that are not affected by politics.

A City Magnificent.

Oakland has won the right to maintain her integrity, and in the fight against the attempted aggression of a neighboring community, has come forth clean-handed from the fray. The annexation amendment was placed before the voters of the State, and the measure was fought pro and con on the merits of the case. The fair-minded people of the State responded nobly to Oakland's call for justice.

An episode which occurred in Oakland a day or two following the election is illuminating in this regard:

Chief of Police White of San Francisco was visiting Chief of Police Petersen of Oakland last week, and during his visit Petersen proposed a trip to the tower of Oakland's new city hall. The two chiefs rode to the top floor in an elevator and then mounted some spiral ladders into the tower lantern.

A panorama of wonder and beauty met their gaze. It was a clear day and from the bay to the hills the sun shined down upon a scene not to be equaled in any other city in the United States. The rich vision of farm lands and beautiful valleys extending beyond the city to the east, the home-studded slopes to the north, the noble residence districts, Lake Merritt with its encircling parks and homes and the unparalleled harbor facilities to the west and south lay revealed in the winter sunshine.

Petersen had never climbed to the summit of the new municipal structure before, and he gazed with as much wonder at the view as did the San Francisco chief. Although a resident of the city for many years, the Oakland chief was amazed at the vistas of tree-flanked highways. He had known that Oakland was a city with many beautiful gardens and avenues of trees, but the long lines of green stretching in many directions from the business district out into the suburbs proved that he had but slightly appreciated the arboreal beauty of the City of Oaks.

In the nearer foreground the tops of great buildings marked the business section of the city, and in the deep canyon streets between tiny automobiles and pedestrians could be seen passing to and fro. A network of car lines extended in all directions.

Out across the bay could be seen San Francisco and to the north of that city the gateway to the Pacific. The strategic position of Oakland from the point of view of trade and commerce, of shipping and railroad facilities was apparent at a glance. There was a silence for some time between the two men. Then Chief White drew a long breath. "Thunder, but you've got a magnificent city here," he said at last.

"Maybe you can see, now," answered the Oakland chief, "why San Francisco wanted to take us in, and why Oakland was determined to remain faithful to her own possibilities."

20 YEARS AGO IN OAKLAND

Oakland has another banking institution. The Farmers' and Merchants' Savings Bank was incorporated today, with a capital of $500,000. The following incorporators will serve as directors for one year: Samuel Bell McKee, Robert S. Farrelly, William H. Taylor, A. W. Schafer, F. S. Osgood, H. F. Gordon, Thomas Preather, C. E. Palmer and W. H. Bailey.

The haze is drifting rapidly out of the political atmosphere and the status of the various States in the Electoral College is becoming clearly defined. There is no room for doubt as to the general result as the triumph of the Democratic ticket is too sweeping. The electoral college consists of 444 votes, 223 being necessary for a choice.

City Engineer Morgan presented an elaborate report at the meeting of the Board of Public Works last night upon the petition of a number of prominent citizens, asking for the continuation of the work on the Lake Merritt boulevard. The communication was referred to the committee of the whole.

Frank Wilson will go to Denver, his old home, just as soon as he concludes his engagement with the home nine. Wilson has made a remarkable record this season and has caught almost every game for the home nine.

Bill Lange, the center fielder for the Oakland nine, met with a painful accident in the game yesterday. He attempted to slide back to first base when Charley Dooley muffed the ball, when one of the spikes in his shoe struck Lange in the nose, causing a fracture. The player was unable to arise from the ground without assistance.

Johanna, the prize monk of the Philadelphia zoo, objects to wearing pants, which indicates that the feminist movement hasn't spread as far as we had thought.

GRAND JURY PROBE FOR PETITIONERS

Race Track Advocates Are Charged With Signing Bogus Names.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 9.—District Attorney Wachhorst has laid before the grand jury the facts he has gathered regarding the illegal placing of names of voters on the petition for amendment, which went down into the rack of defeat last Tuesday.

The District Attorney's act went no further than to lay the bare facts before the jury. He had no evidence to submit. Mr. Wachhorst placed the matter before the jury so that it still further in the future, if he lands evidence upon which a conviction can be had, he will be in position to take immediate action.

Mr. Wachhorst said yesterday that he had no evidence to submit. He said that the petition which is said to have been circulated by Pauline Simmons, wife of Joseph Simmons, and which contained names of persons who did not sign it, was in the same position as last week. Joseph Simmons had been the verification deputy, but when he got a job in the registration department of the county clerk's office, he turned the petition over to his wife, Pauline. The petition circulated by Pauline Simmons showed that it had been received by T. Gratz, deputy county clerk, and that the woman had sworn to its correctness. Joseph Simmons says that he passed the petition to Gratz and that his wife, Pauline, is present. He says that he did not swear to it, and that he did not know it had been signed by her. Gratz told the District Attorney that he recalled having administered an oath to Mrs. Simmons, and that he presumed if his certification was on the petition that he had administered the oath to her, when the petition was presented, but that he could not recall the incident.

A second petition was circulated, according to Mr. Wachhorst, by Phil Simmons, a brother of Joseph. He has had all the names on the Phil Simmons petition examined and has found that all of them are the names of qualified voters in the city. His men now are working among the people who signed, or are supposed to have signed, the petition, to find out if they actually did so or not. If he finds irregularities, he will lay the evidence before the jury and ask for an indictment.

MEN AND WOMEN CHAINED TOGETHER AND KILLED

Horrors of Turkish Outrages Told by the Correspondent at Scene of War

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Nearly every dispatch arriving in London from the scene of the Balkan war describes merciless massacres of Christians, including women and children, indicating that the Turks have not changed in this regard in the 500 years since they first became the terror of Southeast Europe. The beaten army in Macedonia pauses long enough in the slight victory of the victorious allies to burn villages, pillage, slaughter men and carry off women.

Even the rabble in Thrace, plunging headlong to Constantinople, after suffering disastrous defeat by the Bulgarians, according to accounts mutilated by the bodies of the enemy and massacre of the innocent, carried off women from the island of Lesbos, to the Aegean now occupied by the Greeks, reports come that wild Moslem bands have been burning and pillaging, just as in 1824, during the Greek war for independence, inhabitants numbering over 20,000 were massacred almost to a man by the Turks.

SCENES OF HORROR.

Andreas Neumann, special war correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, who is going over the battle areas in a motor car, describes the heart-rending incidents and scenes of terrible atrocities at almost every mile of his journey. He says:

"In the course of my journey across the border I have come upon innumerable reports of Turkish atrocities committed in towns and villages. I purposely mentioned as little as possible until I could have actual proof of these, which I have now. I have seen graves of women and children, recently executed, and I have spoken with survivors of the massacres.

"At Simlil, I came across the first victims of the atrocities. It is a small village with a few houses grouped together. Every house has been abandoned. Only a few dogs remain howling and searching for food among the ruins. The only inhabitants who remained were three Bulgarians. One told me that before taking flight the Turkish regulars broke into his house and seized him by the neck, threatening to cut his throat if he did not give them his money. The other told the same tale. He said that his life's savings were 600 groschen. He gave them being glad to get away with his life.

"The third man was very poor but he had two daughters still very young. As the Turks could get no money from him they took his daughters.

SLAUGHTER THREATENED.

"These are only samples of the first stories told me. Others followed. For several days I have been questioning fugitives from more than fifty villages on this side of the border who are plodding in rags and tatters along the roads, many of them women often carrying babies slung in sacks over their backs. They had left as soon as war was threatened, because the Turks had told them that on the outbreak of hostilities they would slaughter all Bulgarians.

"Coming to Zerkow, I was shown the graves of nine Bulgarians, seven men, one woman and a boy of nine who had been dragged that distance in chains from Djumacka and their throats picked out by the Turkish regulars, not by Bulgarians as there were none of those here. I went over to see the graves, over which a small wooden cross with an inscription had just been erected by Bulgarian officers. Near the cross I saw a poor woman weeping over the grave of her son. The mother had on her back. The baby cried and the mother had to give it milk. I asked her why she was weeping and she said that her husband was one of the seven men whom the Turks had massacred.

Nearby in a field were small chains with padlocks which the Turks had used to chain men and women together in pairs. They drove these captives before them as far as Krapnik and then finding it a nuisance to drive them they took them in pairs into the brush at the roadside and cut their throats or hocked open their skulls with swords.

BLOOD MARKED STONES.

"I asked to be allowed to have some of these chains and carried away two of them. All around the stones were marked with blood.

"The colonel told me that the Turks do not understand giving quarter. A short distance beyond Krena, three soldiers who had ventured forward, fell wounded and were unable to follow the others in a momentary retreat. The Turks caught them and massacred them without mercy. Turkish prisoners are not only well treated by the Bulgarians, but if they are wounded they are attended before being killed. In all wars a certain amount of barbarity is always committed, but the hatred between the Christians and Turks is such that while the Bulgarians are effectively prevented by their officers from committing any excess, it is but too certain that the Turks are not kept so well under control and that fanatical soldiers, apparently under the eye of their chiefs, perpetrate deeds that remind us of the uncivilized warfare of many centuries ago."

MEDICAL TEST TARGET OF CRITIC

Chicago Physician Says Standards of Admission Are Not Strict Enough.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—American medical schools that permit young physicians to begin the practice of their profession without sufficient knowledge were criticized last night by Dr. Jacob Frank, president of the Chicago Medical Society.

His address was given at the joint meeting of that organization and the Mississippi Valley Medical Association, which is holding a convention in this city. The meeting was held in the assembly hall of the Chicago Academy in the Northwestern University Building.

"The American schools," said Dr. Frank, "are far behind in some of the most important branches of our art. I have often wondered if our four years' study in the medical school really qualify one to undertake all the responsibilities of practice. I regret to say that I believe they do not.

"Our students must have better training, a larger amount of experience and more hospital work and must meet more rigid requirements before entering certain fields of practice.

CRITICIZES 'SPECIALISTS.'

"It must be confessed that our post-graduate schools and even our surgical clinics, have in many instances been an inspiration and always for good. The incentive spirit is, we fear, still dominant in post-graduate schools of medicine, and these institutions, in an endeavor to attract the large ones may, require investigation as to the duration of courses, the manner of teaching and the conferring of certificates.

"If necessary, they should be regulated. Specialists cannot be made in six or eight weeks, yet certificates of proficiency are granted following courses of such duration, during which time the sole opportunity of the student for qualification has been to observe some 75 or 100 operations and, for the most part, to see the operations with the assistance of a tutor. Thus qualified, and with the help of an often poorly equipped and manned hospital, the 'specialist' begins his work.

WOULD INCREASE RESTRICTIONS.

"We should demand of our health boards that these schools be regulated, that qualifications in addition to those for general practice be demanded before medical graduates are permitted to do major surgery.

"Let us have special examinations for those members of the profession who desire to wield the scalpel, with additional requirements and an increased hospital experience for all specialists, surgical, obstetrical and medical. Then, recognizing as such those who are able to qualify as specialists, let us compel them to adhere to such practice, and not surreptitiously engage in the work of the general practitioner, in which they declare themselves particularly qualified."

Physicians attending the convention had an opportunity to see how Chicago takes care of babies whose parents are unable to do it themselves.

Moving pictures shown on the roof tents and open air hospitals for sick babies. Nurses starting out from headquarters and visiting the little ones of destitute families were pictured on the screen. A lesson in how to dress a baby was graphically shown.

TURKEYS NOT SO HIGH THIS YEAR

Thanksgiving Bird Will Probably Sell at From 25 to 30 Cents Retail.

From present indications the great American bird which is deemed essential to the proper observance of Thanksgiving is to be within the reach of the pocket-book of everyone.

According to a local dealer there is a scarcity of the birds, but the turkey market is one which ordinarily does not shape up until the latter part of November. The weather is a large factor in determining the price. If it rains and it warms the grower cannot keep his stock but must ship. But if it happens to be a dry winter the price of the bird goes upward.

Lake and Solano counties, which ship a large portion of the birds to Oakland, have an immense number this year, but as yet the dealers have not heard from the local dealers in those counties who usually make it a practice to buy the flocks for the purpose of speculation. This they can do successfully, as the farmer who attempts to ship cannot compete with the dealers who are prepared to ship in large quantities.

As near as can be estimated at the present time the prices will be in the neighborhood of from 22 to 25 cents a pound wholesale and that means that they will retail at from 25 to 30 cents.

SHIPPING NEWS FROM THE SOUTH

Steamer Sakkarah Arrives at Los Angeles Harbor From Hamburg, Germany.

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Nov. 9.—Arrived: Steamer Santa Barbara, 6 a. m. Willapa, Yale, 9:30 a. m. San Francisco, Sakkarah, 1 p. m. from Hamburg.

Sailed: Steamer Queen, 10:30 a. m. San Diego; Beaver, 1 p. m. Portland; Bowdoin, during the night, for San Diego; Yale, 8:30 p. m. San Diego; Arablan, 5 p. m. San Francisco; Tampico, 7 p. m. San Diego; Katherine, 1 p. m. Eureka.

Ninety-seven days out of Hamburg, the Kosmos line steamer Sakkarah arrived here at noon today with 500 tons of cargo for this port.

The steamer Beaver sailed early this afternoon for the north with a good passenger and freight list.

The steamer Yale arrived this morning from San Francisco with a good passenger list. She sailed in the afternoon for San Diego.

The steamer Tampico, scheduled to sail last night for San Diego, did not get away, and sailed this evening for the north, with the remainder of her cargo of grain.

The steamer Santa Barbara arrived this morning from Willapa after a long passage, delayed by head winds and seas.

DOCTOR BURNS LEGS IN A VAT

Tumbles Into Cauldron in Nevada Plant During Darknes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Dr. Robert McWilliams O'Neal, formerly of the staff of the Lane Hospital and now resident physician of the Pacific Surety Company at Tonopah, Nev., had his legs severely scalded last Tuesday night when he stepped into a vat of boiling water at the Tonopah gas works.

He was brought to the St. Francis Hospital here Thursday afternoon. Dr. Weeks, his attending physician, reported yesterday that his condition was much improved.

Dr. O'Neal, notified that there had been an explosion at the gas works, went to the plant in the automobile. In the darkness, he stepped into the vat, sinking nearly to his waist in the scalding water.

He managed to climb out unassisted and began cutting his trousers away, as it was seen when he had cut his trousers and fallen headlong into the vat. He could not have survived, and if he had not been quick and strong enough to get out at once he might not have recovered from the shock.

TAPS SOUNDS FOR GRAND ARMY MAN

William Oglesby Clark, Adventist and Prohibition Leader, Dies.

SANTA ROSA, Nov. 9.—The funeral of William Oglesby Clark, one of the oldest and ablest of the United States and dean of the State Adventists, will be here tomorrow. Elder J. N. Terry of Oakland, an old friend of the Clark family, will officiate. Among the surviving relatives is Mrs. George A. Tupper of Berkeley.

Clark came to the aged minister of the church after his ninety-fifth birthday. His prominence in the cause of temperance had made him almost a national figure.

Deceased was born at Madison, Ind., June 25, 1817. He spent the early years of his life on his father's farm in Illinois. When but 17 years old he moved to California. He was a member of the Black Hawk war in the company commanded by Abraham Lincoln. He was the oldest war veteran of the nation and as a result of his services in that war Congress passed a special bill giving him a pension of $100 a month.

He had a very relative memory and told of many exciting fights he was in with the Indians while he was a young man.

He began his work in the temperance cause when he was 25 years of age. For seventy years he was an earnest advocate of the prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors.

He came to California in 1850 and settled at Drytown, Amador county. He was the first candidate for Congress on the Prohibition ticket. He was elected to the House of Representatives for six terms served as the head of the Sons of Temperance. In 1876 he was chairman of the World's Temperance Congress. He lived at Drytown for sixty years and during that time organized many temperance societies in the state.

Clark was a member of the first frame building in Chicago and Clark street in that city was named after him.

The deceased was a preacher of the Latter Day Saints and was an elder in the church. He was an uncle of Lewis and Clark Cooper of this city and of Mr. George A. Tupper of Berkeley and Mrs. W. A. Douglas of Ukiah.

SCARLET FEVER IN PHILADELPHIA

Board of Health Issues Warning to Prevent Further Spread.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—On account of the great increase in the number of cases of scarlet fever, the department of health has issued a warning to the public to observe every precaution to stop the spread of the disease. The number of cases of scarlet fever has been comparatively few this year. The mortality rate has been decreased 40 per cent. but there has been an increase of 25 per cent in the number of cases.

Scarlet fever in a mild form is difficult to detect in its early stages. The department is holding the symptoms and gives the following advice to parents:

"Sudden fever and vomiting, immediately followed by sore throat, and the appearance of the rash from 12 to 24 hours, are the early indications of the disease. If a child has these symptoms, fever without the vomiting or the rash, there may be little or no fever and the sore throat may be so slight as not to attract attention. Such mild cases are just as contagious as the most severe ones, and they are greater danger to the community, because the patient is not sick enough to go to bed and continue to mingle with the family and other children, and thus unwittingly spreads the disease. Such mild cases may give to others the form of scarlet fever that is rapidly fatal.

"Every case of 'sore throat,' no matter how slight, especially if it occurs in a child, should be regarded as a possible source of danger and should be kept away from other people until a competent physician has examined the throat and given the form of scarlet fever that is rapidly fatal.

"If a child has 'sore throat,' no matter how slight, especially if it occurs in a child, should be regarded as a possible source of danger and should be kept away from other people until a competent physician has examined the throat and given the form of scarlet fever that is rapidly fatal.

'MOVIE' CENSOR TO GUARD FRESNO

Nothing Criminal or Immoral Can Be Deported if New Bill Is Law.

FRESNO, Nov. 9.—Attorney E. A. Williams has submitted for approval to City Trustee Jones as chairman of the ordinance committee, the draft of the ordinance advocated by the Fresno Film society for the regulation and censorship of moving picture exhibitions. The ordinance is patterned after the one of Los Angeles with one important departure from it, however. The Los Angeles ordinance calls for a board of three commissioners, one native to the city, one from Fresno and one from another city. The Fresno measure contemplates only one censor as an advisory committee appointed by the mayor.

The proposed ordinance requires a permit from the board of trustees for every moving picture show, and sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

DRIVER HURT IN HORSES' MAD DANCE

Michael Woods Thrown Street, Suffering Concussion of Brain and Lacerations.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—In a notorious runaway late this afternoon Michael Woods, a teamster, living at McAllister street, was painfully injured while his horses attached to a wagon dashed through the down section for half a dozen blocks and finally halted by a traffic policeman. Woods was unloading goods at the entrance of the St. Francis hotel. His horses became excited. He jumped to the seat and tried to grasp the reins but was unsuccessful and was thrown to the pavement. The horses were stopped until the order of Second Market streets was reached. Woods received lacerations of the face and head, an abrasion of the neck and concussion of the brain.

GALLANT MASHER IS 'SWATTED'

Men Interfere; Is Taken to the Police Station Badly Battered.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A battered and bloody young man told the desk attendant in the East 104th street station that he was a laborer and lived in a Third Avenue lodging house. He did not look the part of a laborer. He was a young man, about 22 years of age, with a fair complexion, dark hair, and a high forehead. He was wearing a dark suit and a white shirt with a dark tie. He was looking very tired and his face was covered with cuts and bruises.

He told the desk attendant that he had been in a fight with a man named "Joe Patchen" and that he had been badly beaten. He said that he had been taken to the police station and that he was now being held there. He said that he was very tired and that he wanted to go home.

The desk attendant called a policeman and the young man was taken to the police station. He was badly battered and his face was covered with cuts and bruises. He was taken to the police station and was held there for several hours. He was then released and he went home.

'Joe Patchen Second' Gets Another Record

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—Joe Patchen II, the season's greatest stallion, hung up a coast record at Exposition Park this afternoon. In a trial against time he won a mile in 2:05. The former record was 2:01, made by Minor Herd in 1910.

LAW AGAINST UNFAIR COMPETITION PASSED

A new law relative to unfair competition and the putting before the public of untrue advertisements in Denmark went into effect on October 1, 1912, reports Consul General E. D. Winslow, Copenhagen.

This law, which has called forth some criticism from the merchants, has a provision that forbids more than two "clearing" sales a year by any firm. Exceptions are made in case a bankrupt stockholder is to be sold or the death of a partner or owner shall cause the closing out of the business "below cost," or if a bona fide winding up of the business is undertaken, or if the place of business is to be removed to another locality, etc. If, however, the above exceptions are not shown not to have been true a criminal prosecution is possible.

The law further contains penal clauses for persons who are found guilty of using false descriptions of goods offered for sale, of employing false business names of firms in carrying on trade, and the like.

WINSTON CHURCHILL TALKS AT BANQUET

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, who spoke before Mr. Asquith at the banquet, made an announcement which, like the premier's speech, did nothing to relieve the anxiety. He said:

"At the present time a strong British fleet is cruising in the eastern Mediterranean. More than 20 battleships and cruisers are to be found where they are wanted in home waters. It is in these classic waters, now the theater of such tremendous events.

"The absence of these powerful forces at the time of the crisis in European affairs requires special vigilance from the admiralty and certain precautions designed to increase our immediate preparedness have been taken.

"We have no reason to apprehend trouble of any kind, but my advisers of the admiralty are satisfied that our fleet and fleet in home waters are by no means unequal to any task that might devolve upon them.

"It would be a poor thing to belittle or depreciate the undoubted resources of the British navy power in serious times like these, and the only reason whatever to do so. That power has seldom stood on a firmer basis than it does now."

COIN FLOWS INTO ORPHANAGE FUND

Large Crowd Contributes the Shekels on Closing Night of St. Anthony's Fair.

Although weather conditions were unfavorable, it proved a barrier for several hundred people, who went in full force to St. Anthony's fair, which came to an end last evening in a blaze of glory.

The bazaar with its booths as its main features, and those supplemented with a roof garden and attendant concessions during the run of two weeks, netted a handsome sum of money for the orphanage fund.

The fair has proved to be one of the most successful enterprises of the kind ever attempted by the charity workers of this city, and is to be repeated annually.

All of the eight booths had an attractive display of homemade articles of all kinds, including hand-painted china dishes, pillowcases, scarves, fans, dolls, and many other articles.

The voting contest for the most popular artist and several raffles which have created a great deal of attention was a feature of the evening, and the results of these will be announced Monday evening by the committee.

Plan Federation To Better Life On U. S. Farms

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—C. F. Sanford is president of the Farmers' National Congress, which has been in session in New Orleans since November 7, and which will conclude November 12.

This is the thirty-second annual session of the organization. A proposition to merge the organization into a National Country Life Federation is being considered.

This would federate all state and national organizations interested in country life. Invitations have been issued to about 1000 such organizations to send delegates to the congress.

It is believed that the formation of the proposed federation will result in better farming and better living on the farm and in the reduction of the cost of living in the cities by bringing farm products directly from the farm to the consumer's kitchen.

Condition Comes at Close of a Heavy Market Affected by War.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The steel corporation reported today that unfilled orders on its books the first of November were 1,542,874 tons greater than at the beginning of October.

This showing came at the close of a heavy market and hitherto there was no opportunity to tell what influence it might have on prices.

But the market was heavy because of the threatened move by Germany in regard to the Balkan war.

On the curb stocks were also heavy with business on a light scale.

DECLINE IS SHOWN IN STOCK AND BOND SALE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The number of shares sold today 287,792, against 486,255 a year ago.

The value of bonds sold today $1,105,000, against $1,918,000 a year ago.

TO ERECT CREOSOTE PLANT. WATSONVILLE, Nov. 9.—A creosote plant to cost $150,000 for Watsonville is the latest project and, according to F. E. Snowden, president of the Watsonville railway and navigation company, who has been in consultation with those interested in the new concern, it is almost assured.

It will be the largest creosote plant in the United States.

CRUELTY IS CHARGED. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Extreme cruelty and inhuman treatment are the causes ascribed by Mrs. Irene Montgomery in a divorce action placed on file with the county clerk today against Frank Montgomery, a teamster.

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

These writings further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, 1000 Broadway, New York City, N. Y.

He Said I Was A Faker

A lady who had some very sensitive teeth that needed attention said to an old-school dentist: "Doctor, I have read that you ought to be a little kinder. I don't feel that I can't stand the pain. I know that you can't stand the work without hurting me, so I want to ask you for a little advice. I've been reading the advertisements of Dr. Terry, who claims that he can excavate and fill any tooth absolutely painlessly. Now, what is your candid opinion of him?"

"Why, that fellow is the worst kind of a faker," was the prompt reply. "Of course, I don't know him personally, and I've never seen any of his work, but I know that he is a humbug. You can't depend on these advertising dentists—they are all quacks. I would advise you to keep away from Dr. Terry."

After the above tirade was ended, the lady departed, promising to return in a few days. She went home and thought of the matter over. She was not satisfied with the argument for dentist put up by Dr. Terry's patients. Then, she learned strange that a dentist should be called a faker merely because he advertised. What if it were true that the most reliable merchants were the biggest advertisers? Surely, the dentists were no exception to this rule.

The lady reasoned out all of these things, and finally concluded that the evidence against her was entirely too heavy. She resolved to see me in spite of what the dentist had said. Even her husband cautioned her not to go near me, but she ignored his protests and came.

To make a long story short, I filled the lady's teeth without causing even a wince of pain. She returned home and told her husband of her experience. He was astonished. Then, she called upon the old-school dentist and told him about it. Being unable to disprove the testimony of his former patient, he was forced to admit that I had made good so far as painless dentistry was concerned. "But," he remarked, "it is not worth the trouble. Fillings will come out in a short time."

That was several months ago and those fillings are still in the teeth, giving perfect satisfaction. Just now, I completed a lot of dental work for the husband of this lady. Do you think he would come to me if I had been unable to fix his wife's teeth painlessly, or if my work had proved unsatisfactory?

When I tell you that my Terythessia method does away with the pain in all dental operations, I don't expect you to believe me until I prove it. Any dentist can make claims, but if he can't back them up he doesn't get the business. I realize that I've got to SHOW you what I can do before I secure your patronage. It would be foolish for me to spend money on advertising just to get you into my office and then have you walk out dissatisfied and disgusted. I can't afford to deceive you.

Please remember that I do high-class dental work of every description. My prices are no higher than those of ordinary dentists, yet I do what you can't procure elsewhere—complete freedom from pain.

I replace missing teeth by my Rex Alveolar method without using partial plates or bridge-work. Every person who has lost some of his teeth should learn how they can be restored by the Rex Alveolar system.

Call and see me at once if your teeth are giving you trouble. I'll gladly make an examination, free of charge, and tell you just what is needed and what the work will cost. Consultation free to all.

Hours: 8:30 to 5:30; Sundays, 10 to 12.

Those who cannot call should write for the free book explaining my Terythessia and Alveolar methods.

U. S. LEGAL AID SOCIETIES MEET

Prominent Men to Be Present at Banquet When Session Comes to Close.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The second annual convention of the Legal Aid Societies of the United States will be held in this city on November 15 and 16. The convention will close Saturday night with a banquet at which will be Joseph H. Choate, Andrew Carnegie and Supreme Court Justice Victor D. Downing.

Delegates from the Legal Aid Societies from other cities, and many prominent men and women will be the guests of the New York Legal Aid Society.

The convention will open with an executive session at the Chamber of Commerce, at which time the work of the societies will be discussed in all of its aspects.

Some important matters to be investigated at the convention, as indicated at the last executive session, are the work of directors of the society in the office of President Arthur von Briesen, were the several "fake" bureaus which have been operating under the name "Legal Aid" bureaus.

It was decided at that time to proceed against the fraudulent organizations at once and with vigor. President von Briesen at the board meeting also called attention to a party who has been operating in Pennsylvania, selling "bannocks" and seeking to register the trademark "Shug Harbor" on his products, it being well known that inmates of the Salter's Shug Harbor on Staten Island make a very superior quality of these articles, the selling of which is their sole source of income.

The president further reported that the heads of the various railroads having terminals in New York had expressed their intention of building ample accommodations for immigrants.

SEEDING NOT ENDED.
WALLA WALLA, Nov. 9.—When more seeding done now than when winter sowing operations a year ago farmers hope to get at least 50 percent of the summer fallow lands planted before the rains make discontingency necessary. Indications are now that there will be two or three weeks before seeding will be ended for the year.

SNEAD TO BE TRIED SECOND TIME FOR MURDER

Another Chapter to Be Written in Lengthy Tragedy of Texas.

MILLIONAIRE SOCIETY WILL BE SHAKEN UP

Five Deaths Have Resulted From Love of Young Boyce for Wife of Snead.

AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 9.—Interest in the second trial of John Beal Snead for the killing of Captain Albert G. Boyce on January 13 of this year has been fanned to fever heat by Snead's recent murder of young Al Boyce, with whom his wife eloped to New York and Winnipeg, Canada, on November 8, 1911, and the gathering of the Snead-Boyce clans here today for the trial.

This trial has been set for Monday, November 11, and it is expected that testimony will be introduced that will shake the millionaire society of this city to its very foundations. This testimony, it was said today, would be of such a sensational nature that a further outbreak of the kind might be expected to follow in its wake.

There have already been five violent deaths directly attributable to the love of the younger Boyce for the beautiful wife of John Beal Snead, the millionaire banker of this city. The first death occurred when Captain A. G. Boyce, father of young Al Boyce and also a millionaire business man of this city, was shot down in a hotel lobby by John Beal Snead, with whose wife young Boyce had eloped.

FATHER MURDERED.
This killing occurred on January 13, 1912, and was quickly followed by the murder of Captain J. T. Snead, father of John Beal Snead, by a former employee who was apparently deranged. This man was T. C. Hilliard, who committed the murder on March 6, 1912, just outside the postoffice, and then turned the pistol on himself with fatal effect. Hilliard left a note stating "that Snead began it" and that he had set himself the task of avenging the death of the elder Boyce.

The fourth death in the Snead-Boyce feud occurred on September 14, when John Beal Snead, disguised as a farmer, waylaid Al Boyce, his wife's seducer, near a church in this city and emptied one barrel of a shotgun into the body of his enemy. Young Boyce died almost instantly and Snead immediately surrendered himself.

WITNESS DIES.
This ended the list of violent deaths that accompanied the wooing of the beautiful Mrs. Lena B. Snead by young Boyce as chronicled by the ready weapons of the feudists. Another and more sinister death, however, has been recorded.

The sudden death of Edward Throckmorton died on September 14, 1911, when he was shot down in a hotel lobby by John Beal Snead, disguised as a farmer, waylaid Al Boyce, his wife's seducer, near a church in this city and emptied one barrel of a shotgun into the body of his enemy. Young Boyce died almost instantly and Snead immediately surrendered himself.

Behind this shedding of blood lies the love of Mrs. Lena B. Snead and Al Boyce, with the alleged ill treatment of Mrs. Snead as an incentive to Boyce to strive for the physical liberty of the woman of his choice, and the proud intemperance of Snead for scandal to accuse him to do murder.

EARLY ROMANCE.
To reach the very root of the rivalry between John Beal Snead and Al Boyce recalls the school days of the murdered man and his alleged slayer. At that time Lena Snyder later Mrs. John Beal Snead, was deeply in love with Boyce.

As the years went by, however, she became engaged to and married Snead. Two children were born to this union and the home life of the Sneads was believed to be ideal by their friends.

In August of 1911, according to the testimony of Snead during his first trial for the murder of the elder Boyce, his wife fell ill and it was then he noticed the attentions of Al Boyce. Upon one occasion, he said, he found Boyce holding the hand of his wife at the side of her sick bed.

The upshot of the situation was that Mrs. Snead was sent to a sanatorium at Arlington Heights, supposedly suffering from a mental aberration. Here she received frequent letters from Boyce, and on November 8, 1911, while out walking with a nurse, she met Boyce and they eloped.

FLY TO CANADA.
Their first stopping place was New York. Later they went to Winnipeg, Canada, where Boyce fought a million for his freedom on the score of being undesirable, but found that mother-love was steadily dragging the affection of his wife to Amarillo, where she had left her two little ones.

Eventually Mrs. Snead returned to her home, where she was promptly placed in an asylum through the efforts of her husband. This action was fought out in the court, however, and on January 13, six days before she was declared sane by a jury Captain Boyce was shot by Snead.

During the trial of her husband Mrs. Snead now out at prison, about the stand in his defense, refusing offers said to have totaled thousands of dollars by the rich relatives of Snead and clinging tenaciously to her love for her affinity. The trial ended unsuccessfully for the state and the second trial date was set for November 11.

OVERTEARS ALLEGED.
In the meantime Al Boyce had come back to Texas and it was the written overtures of Boyce to Mrs. Snead that are alleged to have led Snead to seek his wife. It is also these letters which are expected to provide a sensation when the court convenes. Samples of the sentimental correspondence that passed between Boyce and Mrs. Snead were provided at the first trial of Snead.

One of these addressed to "My Darling Girl" containing the following: "I am so proud of you, I do miss you so much. Oh, precious, I do miss you so much. Please write me, darling, and tell me everything. How long will it be before you can obtain a divorce from your husband? I am so lonely and without you it is a weary, hideous drag. And when we are together again I do want your two children with us."

GIVE RECEPTION TO MR. AND MRS. BUHL

A reception was given Mr. and Mrs. A. Buhl recently at their home at 1504 East Fourteenth street by a number of friends. The house was decorated profusely with greens and the cardinal red and a good time was enjoyed by all present. Among those who attended were Mrs. A. Buhl, Fred Buhl, Mrs. A. Hager, Miss Irene Borman, Mr. and Mrs. F. Garcia, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Penkley, Miss Isabelle Garcia and James Buhl.

COPPER PRODUCTION IN ALASKA INCREASES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The copper production from Alaska in 1911 was $2,414,000 pounds, as compared with $1,811,000 pounds in 1910. The increase for the entire year of 1911 was $603,000 pounds, or 33.3 percent.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has issued a warning to the copper industry in Alaska that the production of copper in that state is being threatened by the activities of the copper industry in the United States. One of the happiest men in Alameda county is County Treasurer M. J. Kelly. He has been receiving the congratulations of his friends for the splendid fight he made for the Roosevelt electors in this county.

Mr. Kelly had two important fights on hand—one for Congressman Joseph R. Knowland and the other for the Roosevelt electors. The latter carried the county by 7200 votes and the

TO BRING HEALTH

Director of Hygiene Outlines Questions to Be Asked of Pupils.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Do you eat breakfast every day? Do you drink coffee or tea? Do you have your bedroom window open or shut at night? Do you own a toothbrush?

These and other pertinent questions are to be answered by the children in the public schools of Minnesota. They form part of a "Health Grading Outline" prepared by Dr. Ernest R. Horn, Special Director of School Hygiene for the States, whereby teachers and school nurses may learn in the most direct manner possible the physical condition of the children instructed to their care.

The appointment of a special state director for school hygiene, and the institution of a searching but non-technical health survey by teachers and school nurses, are the chief contributions to the school-hygiene movement that is now steadily making its way throughout the country.

ARIZONA PRODUCES COPPER IN QUANTITY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Arizona has a record production of 8,404,331 pounds of copper, or 21.28 per cent of the total output of the United States since mining began. In 1911 Arizona produced 807,202 pounds of blister copper, a record with 287,230 pounds in 1910. This is the largest output in the history of the state, according to the Bureau of Mines.

The steady output of copper from Arizona began about 1875, though there was intermittent production prior to that date, the earliest record of production being for 1852. Since 1880 the growth of the industry has been steady and rapid.

PAINTER PAID FOR HIS LOSS BY JUDGE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—George A. Hulse, a painter, was paid for the loss of his painting by a judge. Hulse had painted a picture for a man named Charles Monroe, learning that false charges had been instituted against him, produced $175 from his pocket and handed it to the painter.

"I cannot see you suffer in any respect from this mistake," said the court. "You have lost half a day of your work through the preceding and I am going to pay you."

Hulse accepted the money and retired from the court room. All such Judge Monroe had a right to do with the defendant of the case, as he was willing to satisfy matters as far as he could.

Class and Value Blended in the Shoe Above FOUR DOLLARS

A pretty appearance in itself doesn't make a good shoe, nor does a trim fit, a good piece of workmanship, a fine leather or a reasonable price.

But a shoe like the one in the picture above, for instance, that combines all of those merits, each in its fullest measure—that's the sort of shoe ROSENTHAL'S considers GOOD and recommends to you as such.

A vast number of the most exclusive, fast and winter 1912-13 Shoe Styles have 14-button tops, just like this shoe.

It is made in patent leather, with either cloth or dull kid tops; also in gunmetal calf.

Then it has the popular short and extension sole.

Ladies, you ought to see how smart this shoe looks on your foot, and how small it makes that foot appear.

Step in. We'll show you.

Children's Shoes to Stand the Strain of Winter Wear

Hard usage, dampness and wintry weather. These are the trials the youngsters' shoes must withstand right now. ROSENTHAL'S Juvenile Shoes are equal to the test. And something more. They PROTECT the children's feet, keeping them warm and dry and comfortable. The secret lies in their unsurpassed QUALITY and in their comfortable, broad toed "NATURE SHAPE." SAN FRANCISCO used the most players during the season, 44; PORTLAND had 38; SACRAMENTO, 33; LOS ANGELES, 31; VERNON, 30 and OAKLAND, 29.

BUT ONE NO-HIT GAME IN 1912.

Sixteen pitchers twirled two-hit games during the season just closed; three pitchers were credited with one hit games; and Red Toner of the Seals was the only single, no-run pitcher. Toner's no-hit game was a 1-0 victory over the Athletics.

Game was a 2 to 0 victory for San Francisco over Portland at San Francisco on May 21. Halla of Los Angeles held Sacramento to one hit and a 5 to 0 defeat on May 15; Bill Malarkey of Oakland held the Seals to one hit in a nothing to nothing 10 inning tie at Oakland, June 20, Oakland getting only three hits off Fanning. The other one hit game is credited to Leveranz of Los Angeles in a 4 to 0 victory over Vernon at Los Angeles, July 9.

in which they allowed their opponents only two hits. But one of Suter's games was a five inning affair so can hardly be considered on a par with the performances of Miller and Hitt. Rudy Schwenk, with Sacramento early in the season, and Harry Ables of Oakland each pitched two games in which they allow-

Harkness, Higginbotham and Koestner of Portland; Tozer, Leverenz of Los Angeles; Stewart, Raleigh of Vernon; Christian, Gregory, Maharkey of Oakland; and Anderson of Sacramento.

SOLONS BOBBLED THE MOST.
The greatest number of errors all season were made by the Solons and they also hold the prize for the greatest number in one game. The team bobbled nine times in the Sacramento-Vernon game of June 20, at Sacramento.

Vernon and Portland tied for the least number of errors made. While Vernon made more hits, more runs, more extra base hits and stole more bases than any other team in the league.

Ad Wolgast Wires Jim Coffroth That He Will Keep Engagement for Thanksgiving

RITCHIE MAY LEAVE FOR EAST IN FEW DAYS NOW

Says He Is Tired of Waiting; Will Make One More Effort to Snare Wolgast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9. — While Ritchie is beginning to worry over the chances of getting a match with Ad Wolgast, he is not neglecting to turn up within the next few days he will go east in search of matches.

His manager, Billy Nolan, has gone to Los Angeles to see Wolgast, but before he left made a proposition to Eddie Grady. His proposition is this: To take the first $20,000 of the receipts with which to pay Wolgast and the expenses of staging the bout, the remainder to go to Grady and the balance, if any, to go to Ritchie. The latter has made no reply to this proposition and it is not likely that he will accept it, as he does not seem to be very anxious to pull off a Wolgast-Ritchie fight.

H. MEHEGAN MIGHT MIX WITH WINNER OF LAST NIGHT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9. — Hugley Mehegan, the Australian champion light-weight, may be seen in action in the States before he returns home after all. It was expected that he would return to Australia after he got through with his match with Mike Wells, the British champion, as Hugh D. McIntosh called him a snail-dug offer to return, but the West Side A. C. of New Orleans has gone after Mehegan for a match with the winner of the Wolgast-McIntosh match.

D. J. Torrence thinks he can afford to pay a life price for such a bout, but it would be a real international battle, and draw a tremendous crowd to the southern city. It is expected that Mehegan will make the trip over here and then return to Australia via San Francisco, having another bout with Mike Wells before he goes home. This battle with Wells showed him to be a strong fighter as well as a clever boxer. The inducements are big enough. It is expected that Mehegan will make the trip over here and then return to Australia via San Francisco, having another bout with Mike Wells before he goes home. The Australian can make the lightweight limit without bother, so there would be no hitch on that score. It is a match that would attract the attention of the sporting public all over the country.

PING BODIE IS IN BAD WITH BOSS OF WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, Nov. 9. — Ping Bodie, the erstwhile fence buster, who is out of the White Sox, is likely to be sold, traded or sent back to the minors before next season.

Bodie lived up to his reputation earned on the coast for one season. Then he went back to the coast and acted as a fence during the winter. He was comparatively safe. His bad play in the city series, completed three weeks ago, when he did not catch a hit, finished his career on the south side.

M'CREDIE SAYS HE WILL HAVE ENTIRE NEW TEAM

Portland is going to have almost an entirely new ball club in the race next season. Walter M'Credie, in a moment of peevishness, released Markness, Koestner, Henderson and Suter, pitchers, and Rappaport, the only first baseman. He says all of them are lacking the class required of a winning Coast league club.

He is going to do a lot of trading and buying when the season of 1913 opens and with what aid he can get from Cleveland he hopes to have another pennant winner in 1913.

TOY COBB IS VERY MODEST

Having finished the American League season with a batting average of .411, Ty Cobb predicts that he will beat the 400 mark again next season. "At the beginning of the season," he said, "I declared I did not expect to reach the 400 mark, as I had the year before, considering two straight years too much for me, but my manager, and I now believe fully that I will do so again next season." Cobb has 25 hits in 62 at-bats, a .403 percentage and is much better than the .305 points and Speaker of the Red Sox by .022. Also he stole 61 bases.

KLING DON'T LIKE WARD

John Kling says his showing with the Boston Nationals would have been much better had he not had a bad argument with his head in a tub and kept it there. Kling points out that up to the time Ward quit the club it had been 25-25. Kling has a record of 27-28. From August 1 on, after Ward resigned, Boston won 17 and lost 26, a percentage of .395. Kling points out a good argument and it must be considered also that he had nothing to do with it.

HAD TO SEE THOSE GAMES

Joe Niekirk, the automobile racer, cancelled his fight because he could not miss the world's series. It is a cousin of Pitcher Bodie of the Red Sox and rooted hard for Boston, on though it hurt him a good deal to see so to see them in action.

STILL AFTER BARNEY DREYFUSS

S. E. McCarthy in The Pittsburg Courier, who boosted the United States League in Pittsburg until it was a laughing stock, in opposition to the Pirates, has now found a new weapon to hammer at Barney Dreyfuss with. It is in the fact that Dreyfuss is attempting to buy out of that grand (2) game in the Smoky City.

BIG ED WALSH A WONDER

Big Ed Walsh again hops into view as a perennial wonder. Ed always does something out of the line until the Chicago city championship. He held the Chicago city championship for a long time and that busy individual was the only club to retain second base.

CONNIE MACK IS FORGIVING

Connie Mack's forgiveness extended to Ruben Oldring as well as Chief Bender and both were taken back into the fold by Athletics. Bender was sent to the minors and understood between the players and manager that joy riding and all efforts to diminish the wine crop should cease.

THAYER IS COMING BACK

Joe Thayer, former owner of The Bostonians, sold his last horse and the Lexington meeting. This veteran breeder and owner of trotters will now retire and spend his remaining days on his ranch in California.

GREATS AND NEAR-GREATS OF THE ROPED ARENA. RITCHIE IS AFTER AD. WOLGAST FOR A 20-ROUND GO. MILLER AND MORAN WILL BOX AT DREAMI AND NEXT FRIDAY EVENING, AND FLYNN MEETS MCCARTHY AT LOS ANGELES-DECEMBER 10. TOMMY MCFARLAND WANTS TO BOX SOMEBODY; FRANKIE BURNS OR GROVER HAYES PREFERRED.

HOW CHARLIE HORN BECAME A BOXER IN ARENA

Horn is a millwright by profession, and when not training for battle he may be found working in the factories of the famous Noe valley. Horn's introduction to the boxing game is an interesting story in itself. He always liked boxing and he never overlooked an opportunity to don the mittens. Also he was fond of seeing bouts, and he frequently acted as second for scrappers. And herein lies a tale.

Now, Charlie Horn is not Charlie Horn at all.

Horn's real, moniker is Charles Adams. He has a friend named Charlie Horn, who is also a boxer. Well, one evening the Charlie Horn was booked to box in Oakland. Just before the bout the real Horn suffered a cramp, and told the promoter:

"When that personage heard this glad news just before the battle, he went straight up to the arena, as he came down he was spouting epithets and cuss words like a second mate."

"Yes, but you're not Charlie Horn, and I have Horn billed and the fans won't fall for it," returned the blond.

"You see, I'm going to take my pal's name," said Adams. "I'll take my friend's name."

"That's all right," returned the blond. "You see, I'm going to take my pal's name, I ought to be good enough to carry his name. Let it go at that. They'll think I'm Charlie Horn, and I'll make good for you."

And Charlie Adams did make good, but since that night of substitution he has been battling under the name of Charlie Horn.

AD WOLGAST WIRES THAT HE WILL BE ON HAND TO BOX

Tells Southern Scribes That He Is Willing to Keep Appointment With Promoter Jimmy Coffroth

DOLPH WOLGAST, a bit disfigured, but still in the ring, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday afternoon, so a dispatch from the south says, and when quizzed by the newspapermen, told them that he was going right along to San Francisco. This is what he said:

"I see no reason why I should not keep my engagement with Jim Coffroth and fight for him on Thanksgiving Day at San Francisco."

Allowing that Ad keeps his word, he should be among those present either tomorrow or the next day and then the waiting fans will gather around the arena that should be right as to just what is going to be what in the fight game around the bay.

Will tell Jimmy Coffroth the same thing he told the scribes in the south and demand that Jimmy find an opponent for him, reminding him to see. Perhaps when the little Dutchman and his box manager find out that Jimmy can't pull off a scrap in San Francisco they will tell the fans that the postponement of that Coffroth has asked for.

But, should he demand a match and Jim can't give it to him, Wolgast might kick over the traces and do a 20 round fight with some boxer for Eddie Grady (who lost to Johnny Ward) at the month of November.

Eddie says he has a man along the line to meet Ad and that he will be made an offer that he can't very well sidestep.

NO TROUBLE TO FIND OPPONENT.

Adolph and Tommy Jones don't need to worry over an opponent. While Ritchie is right on the ground and will be most liberal to the champion in the matter of his share of the gate receipts, it is not likely that one crack at Wolgast.

It is too tough a bird for him, for he must remember that 11th of May scrap. Grady will find somebody else, probably Frankie Burns.

Of course, the Wolgast-Ritchie bout is the main event and no doubt the promoter, for that is the one that would

HAD SOME EXTRA MONEY.

The players of Connie Mack's team made about as much money out of a couple of exhibition games as they did their series with the Phillies. At a game played at Shenandoah, Pa., nearly 10,000 fans turned out to see the Athletics beat a picked team.

SOME DIFFERENCE HERE.

Twenty-two years ago Axel lowered the record for 2-year-old trotters and also for stallion trotters of that age to 2:12. The record was made to a high mile and Axel sold shortly afterward for $105,000. Manrico set a new record last week and sold for $20,000. Some change, yes?

WHAT IS GENTLEMAN BOXER?

preached into dreamland by Lunt, McCarthy and the other players. The gentleman boxer and wanted it understood that Al was not a fighter. She didn't have to tell anybody that.

SOME DRIVER IS McDEVITT.

Mike McDevitt is the only trainer to drive three horses to trotting records below 2:05. The trio are Lillian R. 2:04 1/2; Ferns, 2:04 1/2; and Fern, 2:04 1/2. all owned by Captain David Shaw.

WILL WILLIE DO IT?

Will Ritchie is the golden opportunity with him. Everyone is watching the San Francisco box and wondering if he will stick to Billy Nolan in preference to a

MAKE A RECORD FOR TIME.

Cincinnati and Brooklyn claim to have made the time record for a full nine mile race in the major league this year. On September 12 at Brooklyn they played their contest—a 1 to 9 affair—in an hour and 10 minutes.

ENGEL IS A COACH.

Joe Engel of the Washington team is acting as assistant coach to the football squad at St. Mary's college near Washington. Engel was formerly a star football player at this school.

SPORTS BREVITIES

LA CROSSERS GOING TO ANTIPODES.

An English amateur increases team that contemplated a trip to Australia and of the Australian authorities: "First-class passages to and from Australia for 15 players and one manager, all travelling and hotel expenses whilst the team is in Australia, and an allowance of three shillings per day per man from the day the team leaves England until their return." They are not likely to make the trip on the proposed plan.

7500 FOR CHESS PLAYERS.

The New York-Havana International championship chess tournament will open at the New York Chess club on Saturday November 10. After each player has met every other player once the scene will be shifted to Havana, in which city every contestant will have to play a second game with every other player. The prize money will foot up to $7500.

ROYAL GRADITZ WON $185,976.

The Royal Graditz, stud of the King of Prussia, has won this season $185,976, which is about $500 less than the German record achieved by the horse of the Herron von Weiberg when they were trained by George Walker. The Kaiser's took the prize of $100,000 in the North German derby.

CHANCE FOR GROVER HAYES.

With Grover Hayes declaring that the grass was very short in Australia, owing to the peculiar way McIntosh did business, he might want to linger around this neighborhood and pick up a few American dollars.

IF SUCH IS HIS PLAN, HE CAN HAVE A SCRAP WITH FRANKIE BURNS OVER THE 10 ROUND BOUTS AT THE OAKLAND WHEELMAN ANY TIME HE WANTS IT. Grover made the crack that he wanted to fight Willie Ritchie and didn't care to stop with Frankie for the reason that he had beaten him once.

PERHAPS HE DID, BUT THOSE 10 ROUNDS, NO-DETERMINED AFFAIRS DON'T CARRY WEIGHT WITH THE FANS HEREABOUT. If Grover thinks he can whip Burns and wants to take a fat slice of American dollars back home with him he has but to say the word.

SWIMMERS TO MEET FOR $600.

England will soon witness a swimming match for $500 a side between John Wolff and David Billington of Baccup. It will be from Brighton palace pier to Worthing pier. The match is the outcome of a challenge issued some time ago by Wolff, who offered to swim any body for six hours for $250 or $500 a side.

CUP FOR CROSS COUNTRY RUN.

The Dartmouth club of Boston has presented a bronze 10 year trophy to be competed for annually in the cross country championships beginning this fall. The race will be run the same day as the Dartmouth amateur football game is played, November 2.

MUST NOT HAVE FLAGE.

Because of lack of Celtic park, association football grounds, Belfast, the Irish Football association has notified clubs that in future flags and emblems must be rigidly excluded from the grounds.

BETTER CHANGE HIS NAME.

Young Jack O'Brien deserved a better moniker, for he's no imitation. He's a real brother of the original.

AT PARRAMATTA, AUSTRALIA, eight brothers of the Heckenberg family, averaging 224 pounds, have formed themselves into a tug-of-war team. They are all over six feet in height, the tallest being 6 feet 7 inches and their weights run from 202 pounds to 272.

B. C. A. L. PLANS FOR WATER CARNIVAL ON NOVEMBER 24

The Bay Counties Athletic league will hold one of the most successful carnivals ever planned around the bay cities on the evening of Friday, November 22, at the San Francisco B. C. A. L. tank. The event will be held under the auspices of the B. C. A. L. and will be managed by the Y. M. C. A. Already four silver cups have been won by the team, winning the meet, another for the winning relay team, another for the best all-around performer, and the fourth for the best round man.

A big indoor track meet will be held in January either in Piedmont pavilion or the Alameda County fair grounds, for the benefit of the Alameda County for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, by the B. C. A. L.

The league will hold its annual basketball championship in February with all of the high schools in the league represented. The winners of the league are Oakland high, Oakland polytechnic, Berkeley, Alameda, Mission, Cogswell, Willingford, Lick and San Francisco polytechnic.

The B. C. A. L. will hold a baseball championship series beginning about the middle of March. The trophy will be a 12 inch gold ball to be given to the winning team by the A. G. Spaulding Co. of San Francisco.

TOM KENNEDY AFTER WHITE HOPE CROWN IN PRIZE RING

The following letter to the sporting editor is self-explanatory:

"On behalf of my charges, big Tom Kennedy, New York's popular heavyweight, I would like to issue a challenge to any white heavyweight in your vicinity, or in fact in the world. Kennedy, who stands six feet in his stocking feet and weighs 205 pounds, is a fast fellow for a big man and is one of the very few big men who is a good boxer. Kennedy has not the following men: Bombardier, Wells, Andy Morris, Sandy Ferguson, Carl Morris, Frank Moran and Al Palmer, whom he won from twice. He will never meet negroes."

"I am, very truly yours, Leo P. Flynn, 328 East Fourteenth street, New York City."

WIDOW WITH $80,000 A YEAR BECOMES BRIDE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. — Friends in this city of Mrs. F. N. Stanley, a widow of Green's Farms, Connecticut, who has an income of $80,000 a year, today learned of her marriage to J. Edward Martin, of Gordonville, Va., who for five years, until March of this year, was assistant manager of the Manhattan Hotel. Mrs. Stanley lived last winter at the Manhattan, and it was there that the romance between herself and Mr. Martin began.

But the friends of the bride are still ignorant of when and where her marriage to Mr. Martin took place. At her Connecticut home this evening Mrs. Martin admitted, after a slight hesitation, that she is now the wife of Mr. Martin, but would not tell when or where the wedding had taken place or the names of anyone who had witnessed it.

"I don't know," she said, "I am married" was a question she asked when further information about the wedding was sought.

Mr. Martin was last seen in New York at the Manhattan Hotel several days ago. Asked where he was, he was told to Mrs. Stanley, his only reply was a smile.

OLD TIMERS DID WELL

Under Birmingham the Nags have played 28 games, winning 21 and losing seven for a percentage of .750. The world's series might have been staged in Cleveland last night, as the Nags have been convinced earlier that it was time for him to quit.

ALL AFTER JOHNNY KLING.

Though John Kling has announced that he has quit the game, it is said at least three National league managers, McGraw, Doolin and Clarke, have made him offers for next year.

THOUSANDS FOR BOWWOWS.

The 5th annual dog show of the English kennel club held in Crystal Palace included 520 classes. The prize money numbered 923 and the prize money $24,500.

WON PLENTY OF CLOTHES.

Thibault of the Reds won a suit of clothes for betting in the most game for his team and Art Williams was played out by another National member for allowing the smallest percentage of correct picks of any of O'Day's pitchers.

REL WAS BIG WINNER.

The Rel won $100 while racing and, it is said, never finished outside the money in three seasons of racing in the best possible company.

LOS ANGELES COPS ON HAND TO MEET RIVALS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9. — The Los Angeles policemen's baseball team has arrived for Sunday's game at Recreation park with the local police team and looks count for anything on "finest" are going to be engaged in a struggle that they will be so far from the south coasters look like regular bullpuppers, counting among them a number of men who would shine in the professional ranks. They have been playing together for a number of years and know the game thoroughly. The local squad, on the other hand, is a comparatively new organization (the former Coast league twirler in the box, their figure to give the visitors a mighty rub).

The game, the entire proceeds of which will go to the Youth's Directory, will start at 2:30.

CHARITY BALL GAME WILL BE PLAYED DECEMBER 1

The baseball game scheduled for last Sunday, between Oakland Lodge No. 261, I. O. O. F., and the team from San Francisco, has been postponed on account of rain. The boys, however, feel that the Ladies Relief Society, for whose benefit the game was arranged, should and play the game on Sunday afternoon, December 1. Tickets sold for last Sunday will be valid on December 1, when the teams will meet, rain or shine. The committee promises some new stunts for that day and the disappointment of last Sunday will be offset in that manner.

COVE GETS A CHANCE

SANTA ROSA, Nov. 9. — The newly organized Santa Rosa County Athletic club of this city will give its first curtain puller on Saturday evening, November 9, with a classy list of short distance boxing contests.

Percy Cove, the "human cat," is scheduled to meet Ray Baughman, the "Petroleum Chicken," in the main event of 10 rounds.

ADVISE TO FOOTBALLERS

Gentle advice to a football player: you can't play the game put up a stiff neck and play the game. If you're hurt and limp off the field, it's possible to enlist the sympathy of a couple of other men who are out there. You'll get three runs from the rosters and always be a lion with the fair sex.

MORAN IS AFTER A BOUT

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. — Jimmy Johnson, manager of Eddie Morgan the Irish bantam, is despatching the West coast to look for a match against Johnny Coulton. The south coast club is said to be trying for a championship bout.

AS MUCH SMOKE AS WOODS

Artie Wenzel, a California fan, and that Bill James, the Seattle pitcher who is a local hero, has almost as much smoke as Joe Wood, has a better hope, and in addition has a splitter which will make him a better pitcher than the "Hosco" marvel.

IT IS HARD TO ANSWER

The question of "who is the world's series hero" is answered with such a flock of horses that it is worse than no answer at all.

AUTOMOBILE SECTION

REAL GROWTH OF AUTO ONLY IN INFANCY

This Is Opinion of H. C. Bradfield, Ad Manager of the Cole Company.

"POSSIBILITIES GREAT FOR EXPANSION"

The Elegant and Commodious
Salesroom and Efficient Force Necessary.

"Although the strides that the automobile industry have made up to the present day have been phenomenal, manufacturers and dealers are only now learning what co-operation has done for its advancement. The real growth of the motor car business has just started. The automobile industry of today is a big proposition. It can no longer be classed as those lines, where there is any doubt as to its future; hence the name 'automobile game' is a misnomer, and one which progressive makers will relegate to the scrap heap of antiquated ideas.

"It is the dealer who goes through with cylinders sitting on all fours—the co-ordination of salesmanship, localized advertising, business ability and service to customers, who will find that he does not have to stand in front of a bank to get a draft."

This is how H. C. Bradfield, advertising manager of the Cole Motor Car company of Indianapolis, who has been on the Pacific coast, sizes up the situation. He was here for a week the guest of the Pacific Motor Car Company and the distributors for the Cole car in California.

WONDERFUL POSSIBILITIES.
"The possibilities for expansion in the motor car industry out here are wonderful," said he, "that is for the man who is ambitious, for the man who is in the automobile business, spelled with a big 'B'."

"The day of being in the motor car trade and having an agency and salesrooms, just to be in some line of work, has passed and now only those who are at heart and soul in the work can hope for success.

"People who nowadays purchase motor cars, are going to the dealer who not only has elegant and commodious salesrooms, but to the man who in addition employs a competent sales and service force, and gives his clients real service under all conditions.

"The successful automobile dealer is the one who co-ordinates his salesmanship and advertising. The automobile merchant is making money because he pays the proper attention to all the angles of his business, especially to advertising. This is really an essential element, for it is one in which a great deal of money can be easily wasted without adequate returns, thus making the dealer discouraged.

ADVERTISING RIGHT.
"To advertise properly the first essential is to give advertising attention. It must not be done mechanically. The automobile dealer must not try and place off the spending of money to the automobile factory. He must delegate to himself or one of his assistants, the important part of his business. There is not a concern but what has somebody in its force who is partial to advertising, and only needs a little encouragement to start it. Once you get this man interested, he will be able to write an intelligent advertisement. He will be able to get that newspaper human interest in his advertisement the same as a reporter gets in his story. He will localize his advertising. He will make it pull business."

"Advertising is divided into two classes: quality and pulling advertising. The first gets your name before the public, the second gets it into their hands. It is no more than good. Pulling advertising, interest the prospect, brings them to you to inquire about the car. It gets him to the salesroom, then it is his choice; for no advertising carries a probability of being in a signed order, or in a cash transaction. If after the advertisement brings the prospect to the dealer, it is not done. It is the fault of the salesmanship, or his confidence in the product.

NOT IN GAME.
"The automobile merchant is in business, he is not in a game and he is getting more and more adapted to these conditions and thus he is able to give better service."

"Salesmanship in the automobile industry is a big factor. The man who can take an order under almost impossible conditions is a salesman. He is the man who does not hang around the salesroom. You never find him selling motor cars with his foot on the brake rail.

"There is the service question. This can also be much abused. The man in the automobile business is giving the department of their work proper attention, and getting results, because they are doing it for the business."

HAYNES STARTER SPEEDIEST MADE

Turns Engine Over From 100 to 120 Revolutions Minute.

For people realize that the modern automobile has to be equipped with two engines; but such is the fact. The phrase "self-starter" is on every motorist's tongue nowadays; yet very few of them know that the starter is itself an engine, sturdy, capable, compact and the very highest development of the automobile designer's skill.

In the old days, when every automobile driver dreaded the necessity of climbing out and cranking his motor, time and again, all his efforts served barely to turn the crank shaft over less than a full revolution. It was no wonder motors were sometimes obdurate and came in for hard names.

This is the way an official of the Haynes Automobile Company describes the work required of their self-starter:

"The Haynes starter turns the engine over 100 to 120 revolutions a minute. Incidentally, that is three times faster than any other starter on the market will work; that's the factor of safety the company required of their engineer before they would accept the starter. A twelve volt generator is used instead of a six volt as is usual."

The Haynes Company is proud of its starter and this equipment on all of its new model "42" machines is one of the features that has tended to create such an unusual demand for the car throughout the country.

OAKLAND BRANCH ENJOYS RECORD BREAKING TRADE

Car With V-Shaped Radiator
Goes Far Beyond Company's Expectations.

While the uncertainty of trade conditions has been held in abeyance by the national election, and has curtailed the buying of motor cars, this conservatism has never been felt by the local Oakland branch, Manager Henry L. Hornberger, in talking about the trade that his branch has enjoyed during the last three weeks, says:

"Of all the new models we have received, the model '42' with its V-shaped radiator, has gone far beyond our expectations within this short space of time we have taken orders for fifty-seven of the '42's' for future delivery. This number would have been greatly increased if we could have made immediate shipments. As it is well known with all companies, the first car out is the demonstrator. They are rushed from the factory to show what the cars for the next year will be.

"A number of sales we have lost for the simple reason that we could not sell this demonstrator. But as shipments are close at hand, the loss of those who were desirous of at once purchasing the car will not be our loss hereafter. Not only has the local branch enjoyed this popular endorsement in dollars and cents, but the Imperial Garage of Oakland, our agents there, the Motor Sales Company of Stockton, the Motor Sales Company of Sacramento, W. J. Boschen & Co. of San Jose, and our other branches, have all reported the same business as we are able to report from here.

"The cars that we turned out last year sold throughout the country, have made good. We have not been able to get any of those orders to buy new Cadillacs for the simple reason that they are satisfied with what they have, and feel that they are good enough to supply their demands for the coming year. But their enthusiasm has been appreciated in the number of friends they have sent to us. We appreciate advertising; the value of letting the public know what you have, but the publicity of the owners is the greatest recommendation to offer."

CADILLAC AGAIN BREAKS RECORD

Time Between Los Angeles and San Francisco Is Lowered.

A 1913 Cadillac, driven this time by Charles Soules, with A. G. Morse as mechanic, has again broken the inland record between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

This record was made by a Cadillac, T. J. Beaudett driving in 1911 with an elapsed time of 17 hours and 46 minutes, and has stood for almost two years until Friday, when it was lowered by Soules in the 1913 Cadillac by 40 minutes. His total time was 17 hours 5 minutes. At that, Soules was delayed almost an hour on one of the mountain grades by the unexpected appearance of a 16-hour mountain caravan, which compelled him to go to the bottom of the grade and wait for the team to reach the valley.

This is a truly remarkable record when one considers the condition of the roads at this time of the year.

This is the same car that finished second last week in the Los Angeles to Phoenix road race and left on this trip without any further preparation whatever.

The car was checked out of Los Angeles at 5 a. m. Thursday morning by newspaper men, and arrived in San Francisco at Market and Guerrero streets, at 10:05 p. m. the same day.

The car was also checked up by representatives at Jacksonville, Fresno and Chicago, so that the record is authentic. It is a source of considerable satisfaction to Don Lee, the Cadillac representative, and to Cadillac owners generally, that the Cadillac car should hold this much sought after record for a matter of two years and then lower its own record this year with the new model. It speaks very highly for the going qualities of the car under bad conditions.

LITTLE 6 PREMIER IS CAR OF VALUE

F. H. Dailey Company Shows the Auto in New Salesroom.

The opening of the elegant new salesrooms of the F. H. Dailey Motor Car company at 2130 Broadway heralds the advent into Oakland of the new 1913 Little Six Premier. This car is surely one representing values that the public knows are right and also representative of the tried reputation of the Dailey Motor Car company as one of the leading automobile concerns in this territory.

Dailey, in speaking of his 1913 Little Six says: "Premier's foremost position among six-cylinder cars is based upon six years of successful building and marketing of the six-cylinder type of car. The reputation for sturdiness, reliability and economy of operation which the Premier enjoys is attributable to the fact that the Premier company appreciated early that the public would ultimately recognize that in buying a motor car they would be seeking service at a minimum cost and annoyance."

"Among the specifications of this car are Premier self-starter, the inductor, electric lights, head, side and tail, liberal sized tires, luxurious upholstery and the imported high tension ignition." The F. H. Dailey Motor Car company's new home is one of handsome, commodious, comfortable appointments. Dailey has spared no expense in having every detail, from the large, well-lighted showrooms to the convenient service department, the best and most up-to-date that money could buy. Autoists are congratulating the public on having these luxurious auto salesrooms as an additional feature of our already well-appointed "row."

"It Takes a Cadillac to Beat a Cadillac." DOUBLE TRIUMPH FOR THE 1913 Cadillac

Breaks Los Angeles-San Francisco Record MAKING DISTANCE OF OVER 500 MILES

Over Valley Route in 17 Hours 5 Minutes

Breaking by forty minutes the record made by the 1911 Cadillac, in spite of the bad roads, in many places a sea of mud as a result of the recent rains. NOT A MECHANICAL REPAIR WAS NECESSARY, the car running like a top from start to finish.

But This Is Only Half the Story
The Important Thing Is That the 1913 Cadillac Has Proved Itself

The Cadillac that made the record was the same car that ran second in the Los Angeles-to-Phoenix Road Race a few days ago. The Cadillac was hammered 511 miles over mountain and desert so-called "roads" in the Phoenix race. It returned to Los Angeles Wednesday in perfect mechanical condition. The plan to send it after the San Francisco record was not broached until 6 o'clock Wednesday night. The car left Los Angeles at 5 o'clock Thursday morning. It arrived at San Francisco at 10:05 Thursday night. AGAIN THE CADILLAC MADE GOOD, demonstrating that the 1913 Cadillac is a worthy successor—and more—of the previous Cadillac cars.

EVERY PROMISE FULFILLED

The makers of the Cadillac promised that the 1913 model would mark the acme of motor car construction. The American public has been educated to look to the Cadillac for yearly progress. The progress of the industry has been the progress of the Cadillac. This season was to see the obliteration of lines of price distinction. These promises have been more than fulfilled. The car is here, and after inspecting it from all standpoints and seeing its wonderful power on Oakland hills you cannot but join with us in saying that "any car at any price to be compared with the 1913 Cadillac will be honored by the comparison."

ALAMEDA MERMAID HAS FUN IN STAGE TANK

Miss Nell Schmidt Makes Change From Briny to Footlights

A few months ago Nell Schmidt, the 15-year-old Alameda girl, made a little trip to the end of the bay. It required considerable use of her muscular equipment and something more than three hours of time. While other travelers were touring seaside with handkerchiefs from the decks of ferry boats, Miss Schmidt was making a record of the value in a performance given from the Alameda Amphitheater to the public.

For a few months she has been in a different way, making a record of the value in a performance given from the Alameda Amphitheater to the public. She will not give up her swimming, but she will give up her stage work. She will not give up her swimming, but she will give up her stage work.

RECEPTION PLANNED. Miss Schmidt is to be seen in the same way at the Amphitheater in this city, beginning this afternoon. Her reception committee is from Alameda. Her reception committee is from Alameda. Her reception committee is from Alameda.

Miss Schmidt will do her famous swim in a different way. She will not give up her swimming, but she will give up her stage work. She will not give up her swimming, but she will give up her stage work.

"WATER'S FINE." Over at the Pantheon, in San Francisco, Miss Schmidt was found by a TRIBUNE representative last evening. She had just finished her first swim of the first night, in the early show, and was being put through a series of exercises at the hands of her sister, Miss Rose Schmidt.

"This is the easiest thing I do," said the girl swimmer, "and enjoying the water tonight just as I always have done since I was able to toddle and jump into the surf near our beach home in Alameda. But it won't be so easy to swim the English channel, which I expect to attempt. I have no fears as to my strength, although the distance which must be covered, in order to avoid the strong currents, is about 36 miles. It will be a sort of N-shaped journey. The water of the channel is not so cold as that in the bay here. I have studied the conditions carefully. As I felt strong after swimming across San Francisco bay, I believe my strength will carry me across the channel."

MUSCLES WILL HELP. At this moment in the conversation, Miss Schmidt's remarkable arm muscles happened to be peering from a bathrobe, and eloquently supported the girl in her confidence as to her strength holding out in the long swim.

"Have you heard of the Alameda theater party arranged in your honor next Monday evening?" Miss Schmidt was asked.

"Yes, indeed," was her smiling reply. "And isn't it sweet of them? At the same time, I have no fears as to my strength, although the distance which must be covered, in order to avoid the strong currents, is about 36 miles. It will be a sort of N-shaped journey. The water of the channel is not so cold as that in the bay here. I have studied the conditions carefully. As I felt strong after swimming across San Francisco bay, I believe my strength will carry me across the channel."

"Are you to remain long in vaudeville?" the young swimmer was asked. "I may if I continue to enjoy stage life," was the answer. "Perhaps you don't know I have had my tonsils cut out this week, and I haven't made as happy a start as I might have. But I have liked the beginning at that, and who knows what I may take a long trip to the Channel swim."

Miss Schmidt confesses to a certain amount of interest in her first swimmer since becoming a vaudeville headliner, and it may be supposed that she is receiving a weekly pay envelope of which some of the best of vaudeville entertainers would not be ashamed.

The girl swimmer's tour will take her first to Southern California.

SAYS HUBBY OBJECTED TO HER LODGE VISITS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Claude Hanni, who began an action for divorce in the local courts today, claims that her husband to lodge did not find favor in the eyes of her husband, Rudolph Hanni. When she would return from the lodge weekly meetings, she says, he accused her of being out with other men. This, she thinks, constitutes good grounds for requesting a legal separation.

CRIME PROBLEM TO BE DISCUSSED

American Prison Association Meets in the City of Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—Crimes and criminals will be the prevailing topic of discussion in Baltimore for the next five days. The American Prison Association opened its annual congress here tonight and the town is filled with men and women who have devoted their lives to the solution of the crime problem. That this subject is gaining a greater hold on public attention was indicated by the large crowds of visitors which attended the opening meeting of the congress. Addresses of welcome were made by Governor Goldsborough and Mayor Preston of Baltimore. Frederick G. Pettigrove, chairman of the Massachusetts prison commission and president of the American Prison Association, responded to the speeches of welcome. Pettigrove thought it would probably be a long time before crime would completely disappear from the face of the earth, but that it was an evil toward which civilization was working and one which was bound to be realized eventually.

President Pettigrove said that crime was coming to be recognized as a disease and that the old method of treating, as wild beasts, the unfortunate men and women called criminals, had almost entirely passed away. He pointed out what the association had accomplished in the way of improving the laws in relation to public offenses and offenders, and declared the modes of procedure by which such laws are enforced are in some need of improvement. The object of the association is to study the causes of crime, the nature of offenders and their social surroundings, and to discover the best methods of dealing with offenders and preventing crime. Also the improvement of all penal, correctional and reformatory institutions throughout the country, and of the government and the management and discipline thereof, including appointment of boards of trustees and other necessary officers.

One of the paramount objects of the association is to follow the criminal from the prison yard and into the world, and to see that he is suitable and remunerative employment.

U. S. Bureau Lists Publication as Being for Free Distribution.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Thomas Jefferson's architectural drawings for the University of Virginia, done in India ink by himself and shaded by his granddaughters, form part of the illustrations in Herbert A. Adams' volume on Jefferson and the history of the university, and it is a distinct surprise to find that the United States bureau of education lists this publication as among those available for free distribution. Others of the same historical series have long since been exhausted, and it was assumed that none of this edition was left, but the title appears on the list of publications available for free distribution with some 700 or more titles of books and pamphlets on various educational subjects. The other publications listed cover a multitude of educational topics, among them the following: Agricultural education; Alaska school and reformatory service; American educational history, including histories of the school systems in individual States; education and the time; educational methods; foreign school systems; higher education; industrial and technical education; libraries; teaching of mathematics; rural education; school architecture and sanitation; training of teachers. Many of these publications are of great value to teachers, students of education, librarians, and people having a general interest in education and the improvement of public and private schools.

Flow of the United States bureau of education available for free distribution, with a complete and detailed statement of all the books and pamphlets obtainable, is now ready, and will be sent to any one who requests it.

PIEDMONT HOMES COST HALF MILLION

Sixty-three Residences Built Since First of Year in Exclusive District.

A splendid evidence to the general prosperity is the remarkable building activity in Piedmont. The city clerk of Piedmont reports sixty-three building permits for residences issued since January 1, the total value of which is close to one-half million dollars, and which greatly exceed that before the end of the year.

Among the beautiful residences just completed or in course of erection are the James Moffat home costing about $75,000, the Samuel Taylor house, costing $100,000, the William H. Hixson residence, the Broad residence, which will cost $100,000, the Wrighton Creed places, costing $200,000 the Al Higgins place, costing about $100,000, the William H. Hixson residence, costing $100,000, the Starr Martin, Down, Chickering, Bliss and Barnard places, costing between $100,000 and $200,000.

Persons who have not visited Piedmont for some six or eight years are amazed at the tremendous changes that have taken place and the ever increasing beauty of this hill-slope park. Nowhere in California are there more beautiful views than from the Crocker tract at Piedmont. The spacious lawns, the luxuriant foliage and ever-blooming shrubs, the beautiful background of hills and the panorama of city and bay make this residence park unique in its lovely setting.

Woodland boulevard is now complete through Crocker Highlands in Colton. It now gives access in this manner have direct access along the shore of Lake Merritt from the heart of the city.

So rapid is the growth in Piedmont that there is now comparatively little of the high-class property vacant and for sale. In a few short months the hills whose slopes are now covered with buildings will be completely reforested.

It would be difficult to find in California a section where building has been more rapid than in Piedmont during the last year. The census of 1900 gave the population of Piedmont as 1745 and in 1901 it was 2000. In 1902 it was 2500. In 1903 it was 3000. In 1904 it was 3500. In 1905 it was 4000. In 1906 it was 4500. OAKLAND GETS PUBLICITY IN REAL ESTATE MAGAZINE

A page is devoted to Oakland in the annual number of Real Estate, containing a report of the California State Realty Federation, which has just been issued. The magazine is published monthly by David H. Walker, and is officially endorsed by the State Realty Federation and the real estate boards at large. The Oakland section tells of the remarkable showing made by this city in building during the ten months of 1932, just ended, exceeding that of any other city in the state. The building of a new city of 100,000 buildings in the new retail district is also given. The improvement of Oakland's waterfront is mentioned, and is declared to be tributary to the advancement of Oakland real estate trade. An account of the creditable showing made by the Oakland delegation at the realty convention in Los Angeles during the annual number and some of their expressions of benefits derived from the gathering, as outlined in THE TRIBUNE recently, are summarized.

CHICK PROFITABLE LAND RUSH ON IN CONTRA COSTA IN RICHMOND

Along with the other farming occupations engaged in by ranchers in the Mt. Diablo country, the chicken business has gained a firm hold. It has been found that orchard tracks can be cleared off and poultry raised on an extremely profitable basis. This practice does not injure the trees in the least, and, by this idea, big returns are had from the land while the orchard is coming into bearing. In the case of an orchard or grove of several acres, which is more than is required for the ordinary chicken man, substituted farming along different lines is practiced. The space between the trees is set out to berries, beans or garden produce, for which high prices are received.

Because of the fact that the Mc
Diablo country is only "fifty minutes" from Oakland, the feasibility of marketing produce at a minimum expense is appreciated. Retail prices are generally needed 1/2 farmers in this country.

Six sanitary drinking fountains have been installed on the principal street of the town of McDiablo, Calif.
They are the gift of the R. N. Burgess Company.

The main thoroughfare of the building will go right on eastward over the line track.

The widening of Twenty-third street which runs along the west side of the McDiablo tract to eighty feet has been begun. This street, it is predicted, will be "an thoroughfare" connecting the thoroughfare here (McDonald avenue) on which the main frontage of the McDiablo tract faces is already the main business artery of the city.

Are Numerous.

BERKELEY Nov. 8 — Work commenced this week on what promises to be one of the finest apartment houses in the city. It is to be three stories in height and contain 60 apartments, being located at Hearst and Euclid avenues. Chamberlain & Proctor are the owners of the new structure, which is to cost about $50,000, exclusive of furnishings. It is expected the building will be ready for occupancy in the near future.

The site of the Horley Furniture factory is reported this week to have been sold to a manufacturing firm from New York city for $50,000. Details of the sale and the name of the purchaser have not yet been made public. As the title has not been cleared, several parties in the Continental Building and Loan Association of San Francisco concerning which there is much litigation, confirmation of the sale must await the action of the courts.

A purchase of several acres in the "Jungle of the Sunset View Cemetery" northwest of the "Thousand Oaks" and the "Spring place," has recently been made by the Perke-Vinro company of this city.

It is expected the property will be opened as a residence tract, though no announcement has yet been made by the company.

This will make more than a dozen tracts opened within the past five years north of Colburns Creek.

Building operations in the same part of the city have continued unabated during the past week. October was in fact the busiest month for this sort of development in the history of the city.

REALTY BROKERS TO HOLD GET-TOGETHER LUNCHEONS

A "got-together" plan for the mutual benefit of the Oakland realty brokers has been thought out by Secretary Fred Burges of the Oakland Real Estate Federation, and will soon be put into operation. The dealers are to meet at fortnightly luncheons, transact business and listen to able speakers. The main object of interest to the brokers is the fact that several talkers have already been listed, and the attendance of a large number of realty men to meet regularly is to be secured. In other progressive cities such gatherings have been a success, and the annual event of Oakland is real estate hoisters, and the real estate men have made necessary the co-operation of the real estate brokers. The plan is to have a list of speakers, and the speakers are city officials who will be asked to explain the affairs of their departments to the brokers. Outside talkers will also be obtained. Oakland realty men have been greatly encouraged by the defeat of the annexation amendment and are preparing to pull together for the city's upbuilding.

JOBGING AND SHIPPING REVIVE

Oakland Waterfront to Be the Scene of Tremendous Activity.

Warehouse Section Near the Estuary Is Expanding Rapidly.

Now that the voters of the state have supported Oakland's claim to independence and the right to work out its own commercial salvation the development of this city's shipping, jobbing and wholesale business will continue uninterrupted.

Stress is to be laid by the commercial organizations of Oakland upon the increasing of business with the extensive interior territory which rightly belongs to this city.

The recent obtaining of property by the Santa Fe, Western Pacific and Southern Pacific railroad companies near the estuary waterfront in Oakland for use as freight yards is an indication of the expectancy of these corporations to handle a large business in rail and water transportation. The need of better facilities for bringing car and ship together has long been realized.

One of the latest sales in the expanding warehouse district was that of J. Liechtenberg to Kratz & Neppach of a lot 60 feet wide and with a depth of 100 feet on the south side of Fourth street 75 feet west of Webster, on which will be constructed a large warehouse. The consideration was $8350. The building is to be leased to a wholesale firm. The property adjoins the Deming building occupied by the wholesale house of the William Clark Company. The entire block on the south side of Fourth between Webster and Franklin is now devoted to warehouse uses. The situation and the character of a rapidly growing wholesale district of Oakland which was once a prominent residence section.

DISTRICT CHANGES.

One of the most striking indications of the change in the character of the district lying south of Seventh street and between Broadway and Fallon is the new boarding house for the pupils who attend the high school at Fourth and Harrison streets. This corner is in the center of the new warehouse and industrial section. Once it was in the midst of an exclusive residence district, and some of the ancient dwellings still give an air of dignity to the neighborhood. The large brick school building, once accommodated hundreds of pupils but is now attended by not more than two

This region is to figure still more largely in the commercial development of the Pacific. The national government is more lively with the beginning of the Santa Fe's transfer of freight by water and from its sheds located on the largest tract recently acquired.

River boat and deep sea shipping will be handled in greater volume here and all along the city's extensive waterfront, a large trade being established with interior points.

There is an immense territory tributary to Oakland and there is certain to be an enlarging traffic with merchants who would prefer to deal with jobbers located on this side of the bay.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 9 (The Oakland Tribune)—The building record compiled by Building Inspector John Huxley shows 73 permits of various kinds issued by the building bureau for the month closed. The large number divided in building classes, was issued for bungalows and cottages. Despite the fact that three-fourths of the Alameda building program is made up of cottages and bungalows there is still a fair amount of other types of buildings.

WOMEN REFUSE TO BARE KNEES

Despite Edict of Fashion Fa Ones Denounce New Skirt
as Immodest.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — Bitterly denouncing the proposed new style of sk which was described by Lady Duff-Gordon, upon her arrival in New York to the other day, prominent society and club women of Washington declare that they will not use the new style at all, and would rather return to the old hoop skirt than don what they term a dress that is immodest even for Washington.

Not only would the effect of the dress be ugly, the women say, but it would endanger the lives of its wearers. The whole question is declared ridiculous as a matter of prominent women state emphatically that if the dressmakers are tempted to force them to wear such clothes they will rebel.

According to the description furnished by Lady Duff-Gordon, the new skirt which is expected to prove popular among the actresses along the gay white way, the theatre, is to be a skirt that is to expose their knees. The skirt, which is tight fitting across the sides, has a sheathed gore effect in front and the same effect behind.

The exposure of the skirt have in each instance been made at a point just about the knees of the wearer, so that the knees are exposed to the sight of the curious. A ribbon cluster adds to the plainness of the skirt, and also makes a small decorative effect in front.

"I should imagine," that such a skirt would be too much even for Washington." Mrs. DeLacy, wife of Judge J. L. Lacy, declared that she would not wear it, and she said that the women of Washington will wear it. I should not think that it would wear any place. It is immodest, besides being ugly."

The embarrassing position of a woman wearing the skirt in a street car was explained by a society leader, who requested that her name be withheld.

"I have seen several women just as well with one of those skirts on, sitting down in a street car," she said. "Her name would be sure to come through the slip and even though they did not further the cause, it would be a good thing to draw to the idle stare of every man and woman on the car. Besides, it would give her a cold."

"I have traveled from one end of the city to the other, but outside of Park Lane and the women did not pay dare wear such a dress. American women, except for a few actresses and some freakish dressers, do not dress badly, or are they immodest. Any one wearing such a dress as is described by the Duff-Gordon would be not only badly dressed, but would be immodest.

"Of course, as an actual fact, there is no real harm in exposing the knees. It is done every year at the bathing beach. I understand, however, that the women wearing the new skirts are supposed to wear socks and have the naked knees in view. I do not know whether this is true. But even with stockings, I think it would be extreme for any woman to wear such a skirt. It would break conventional rules, which are honored by every good woman, and once such a habit is formed a great harm is done. Besides,

ENGLAND JEALOUS
SAYS H. W. SAVAG

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. — "Read your English newspapers," says Henry Savage, "and you'll see that the 'Hail across the sea' sentiment which a great many of us on this side of the water have for a long time so fondly cherish is a joke, and it's on us. Whether it be an automobile, an athletic contest, a Panama canal project or a play, the majority of English editors can see no good in an American institution, and use the word American as a synonym for inferior.

Savage returned on the Kronprinzessin Ceillie from a six weeks' visit to Europe. The greater part of his time abroad was spent in London, where

"Not in the last 30 years," contended Savare, "has there been noticeable as a spirit influencing the writings of the majority of English newspaper men. It appears to resent American success, and certainly use the power of their columns to belittle American products."

"It is the newspapers of England who are trying so hard to have a primitive and inferior class of cheaply priced automobiles of American manufacture. There are more French cars of the same grade sold in Great Britain than there is doan sent from the English mainland of public opinion. Their efforts are bent toward the exclusion of the American made machines."

The English newspapers are responsible for the attitude of the British toward the empire regarding the automobile.

"They never let an opportunity escape to present our side of the question," he had in mind the Olympic games brought forth from the reflections on our sportsmanship, in the night of the other countries' menagerie, and the American menagerie, and the apocryphal fraternity in the with the bear with a sore head."

Savage said in the case of theatre the same attitude was maintained. He quoted this from T. S. Mauchey, Guardian:

"This play was written by an Englishman, but an Englishman in America is not a public, and it has the quality of that sentimentalism which is sometimes sincere, but nearly always gar, sometimes knowing and again it is purely puerile, which is such a baffling quality to touching part of the American character."

The customs inspectors who exam-

The effects of a traveling magician, a stage ladder that will stop, a disappearing act, a trained pal which can fly around along with a team of miracle working devices were included in his demonstration.

These peculiar contrivances were part of the specialty markets of Paris and London, and are to be stage properties in the production "Somewhere Else," a fantastic musical entertainment he Avery Hopwood is producing, which will be produced in December.

They are the things upon the old programs for which he has been known as the Empire State of the Theatre, and they have been found ready to go to credit to a

PEOPLES OF EUROPE ADVENTUROUS KIND

Trumpets From Four Winds Are Now
Blowing Battle

(By GABRIELE D'ANNUNZIO.)

ROME, Nov. 9.—The peoples of Europe, under the impulse of some spirit of aberration, appear to be stumbling giddily into blind adventures.

The trumpets of the four winds of the world
From the ends of the earth blow battle.

The night is broken eastward. But in reality, the wondrous rhythm of destiny, against which neither fault nor deceit avails—guides events in the days which are upon us. Not a movement of generosity, not a humane sentiment in that Europe so well filled and so cowardly which—by an inversion of the hard saying of one of your statesmen—seem to think that "cowardice ensures peace."

One feels tempted to put to it the poet's interrogation, "Europe, what of the night?" But what could it answer? One single thing, perhaps: "Night with pestilent breath feeds us. Life where we triumph is dead." Nevertheless, our heart trembles in looking upon the ideal image of that one among these nations whom destiny appears to have chosen in this magnificent hour.

There is one who shall secretly require.
All that endure or that err.
She can answer alone.

HAS A GENIUS TO GUIDE.

How will she reply? One must think that each noble race has its tutelary genius which walks hand in hand with danger, while shortsighted politicians and the wooden-headed oligarchs and laboriously negotiating an untimely peace at Ochuz; it must have been this inviolable genius which prevented this sudden treason, as it were, on the part of a young nation, avenged and free, towards two young nations thirsting for vengeance and liberty.

There is not a proud head in Italy and elsewhere but suffered from this abominable attempt. I can state that to the great majority of the Italian people this slow, mean haggling is repugnant and that it awaits the new day of the breaking off of the negotiations at last with quivering anxiety.

The breaking-off must take place tomorrow. All our most ardent wishes desire it. Italy, living and true, the

B'NAI B'RITH PLANS THEATER PARTY

Funds to Be Raised to Defray the Cost of Big Celebration.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Arrangements are being completed for a theater party to be given at the Alcazar, Wednesday evening, November 20, under the auspices of the committee of fifty, representing the ten B'Nai B'Rith lodges of San Francisco. While the play to be produced has not yet been selected, a preliminary effort from the East is promised. The money will be used for the purchase of a new B'Nai B'Rith building, supported by the regular stock company.

Tickets are being sold at popular prices and may be obtained from members of the ten local lodges or at the Alcazar box office.

The purpose of the party is to raise funds with which to aid in defraying the cost of a great celebration to be held next Feb. 27, when the annual convention of District Grand Lodge No. 4 meets in this city. This will be the fiftieth anniversary of the grand lodge and local B'Nai B'Rith members are determined to observe this event with fitting festivities.

The special committee in charge of arrangements consists of Harry K. Wolf, chairman; Milton Meyer, B'Nai B'Rith; Sam Westcott, Aaron Jacobs, Henry Zekind, Arnold Solomon and Julian Pinto.

HE WAS BOARDER AND NOT HUBBY

San Francisco Woman Admits
That Spouse Paid Bills Regularly.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—That hubby preferred the role of a boarder in his wife's home rather than that of husband, is the claim of Mrs. May Millward, of 1915 Sutter street, who testified in support of an action for divorce in Superior Judge Graham's court, this morning. The defendant in the action, John Millward, is a Morse pulpman and the wife admitted that he paid his board regularly. She testified, nevertheless, that that was as far as his interest in her welfare went and that he made no further contributions toward her support. This, she said, had been going on for two years. Four months ago, she asserted, he left her. The court saw an opportunity for a possible reconciliation and therefore continued the matter until next Tuesday for further hearing.

"BIBLE AND THE TURK."

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—"The Bible and the Turk" will be the topic at the popular meeting tomorrow night at Howard Presbyterian Church, Baker and Oak streets. In the morning the pastor, Rev. William Nat. Friend, will speak on "The Triumph of Life."

Y. W. C. A. TO STAGE FOREIGN PAGEANT

Maids and Matrons of Society
Interested in Spectacular Production.

The Young Women's Christian Association will give a play called "The Foreign Association Pageant" on Saturday evening, November 16, at Elks hall.

There will be scenes of Japan, India, South America and Africa, in which various members of the association will take part.

The members of the Hughes Club and various church singers will assist between the scenes in musical numbers. Many local prominent women are interested in the affair.

huge, appears to reveal Athens as a city of light and dark. It is the constitution of the empire, which should contain Constantinople, as they hold themselves to be the legitimate heirs of Philip and the Byzantine emperors, and until 1566 all the enemies of the Turk called themselves Greeks, all fraternizing in the vast orthodox unity.

The Serbs, since the treaty of Berlin, by putting Bosnia and Herzegovina in the claws of Austria, sent away their hopes to the very "root," have had their eyes directed toward the archipelago, along the valley of the Vardar and the railway from Belgrade to Salonika. They have not forgotten that Uskub was formerly the capital of Great Serbia and that it still displays the ruins of the towers built by the formidable Tsar Stephen Douchan.

The Bulgarians, of still more striking originality and the other races, have no less ambitious as they recall that the treaty of San Stefano assigned to them a territory extending from the Danube to the archipelago and embracing Macedonia and a part of Thrace. They also recall that under the dynasty of the Assenides the Rumano-Bulgarian empire more than once made the masters of Byzantium tremble on their thrones and that John Assan II saw his dominions extend from the Danube to Larissa.

CONSCIOUSNESS OF ORIGIN.

And have not the descendants of the Roman legionaries been able to preserve, since the days of Aemilius Paulus, Trajan and Aurelian, through the terrible storms of two thousand years, the keen consciousness of their origin? Have they not retained the memory of those two Assanide brothers, the shepherds of immense flocks, refusing to pay the tribute to Byzantium, invaded Hemus and conquered the entire region lying between the Danube, the Balkans, Rhodope and Macedonia?

Each of these peoples, still young, forges a new right with an old memory, and it is a beautiful thing that young warriors should fight for the inmost bones of their race and that they should invoke the most remote glory of their ancestors. It is a beautiful thing that the name and holy image of Hellas should still live with them as in the sons of one of the forerunners of the Greek revolution, the poet Rigas, a Roumanian of Phoenicia.

Dulgers and Albanians, Serbs and Roumanians, Epirotes and Islanders, with one accord draw for liberty their sword. Hellas calls and beckons you.

But another name also, an image no less sacred, must live with them in this supreme trial, the name and the image of Italy, the name and the image of Rome, since everywhere in the Carpathians, Balkans and Pindus appear the hard traces of the eagles and engraved signs of Latin speech.

What matters it that the horizon is shrouded and the chances uncertain? What matters it that the atrocious adversary should be covered by the European plutocracy which aims only at sharing out his dijecta membra, with no thought of rights and dreams, of the bloodshed and the sacrifice accomplished?

OLD OPIE DILLDOCK'S STORIES.

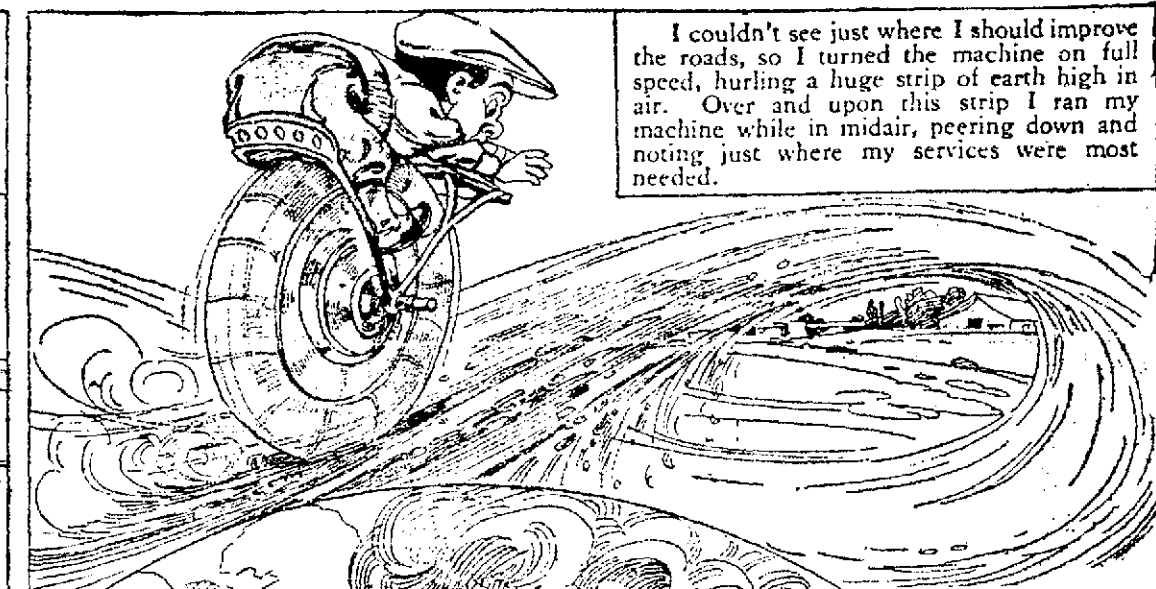

The citizens of my home town had been loudly clamoring for good roads. So I invented a machine that I thought would fill the bill, but when I exhibited it and explained its mechanism I was roundly laughed at by some of the town's wisecracks.

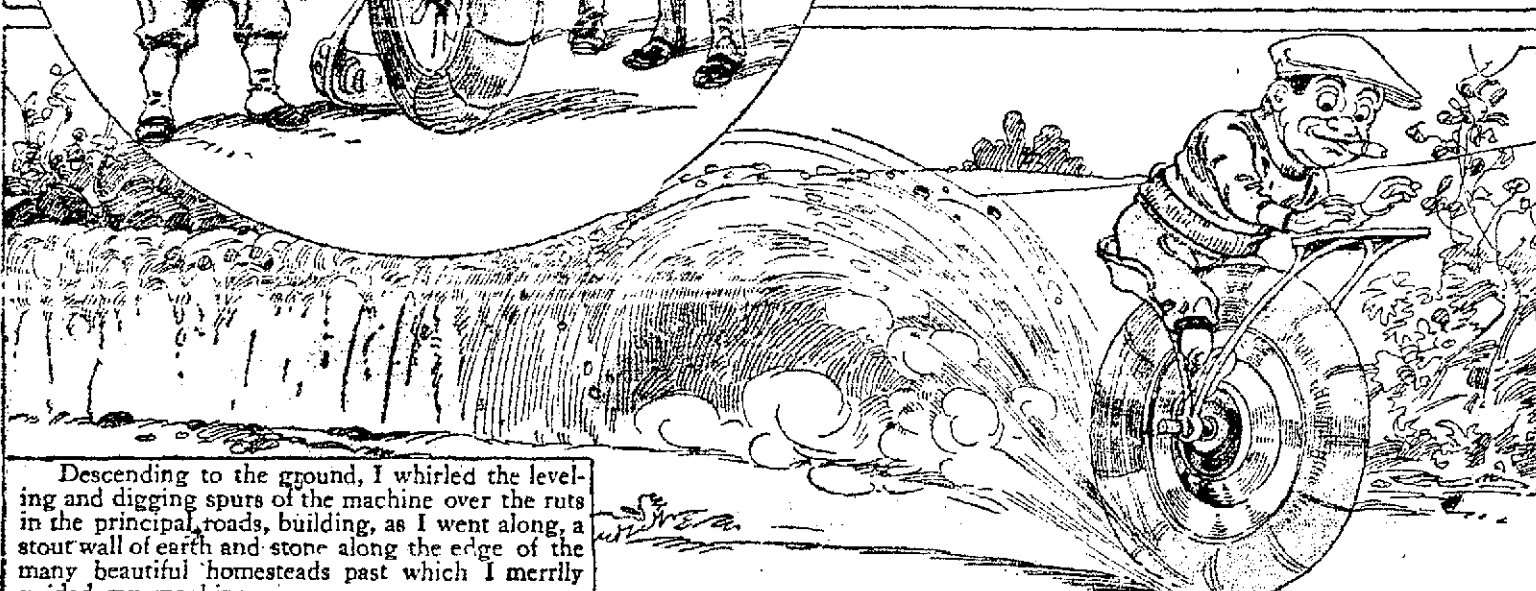

To convince them I mounted the machine and started out to level the rough patches of road. I hurled great clouds of dirt into the air.

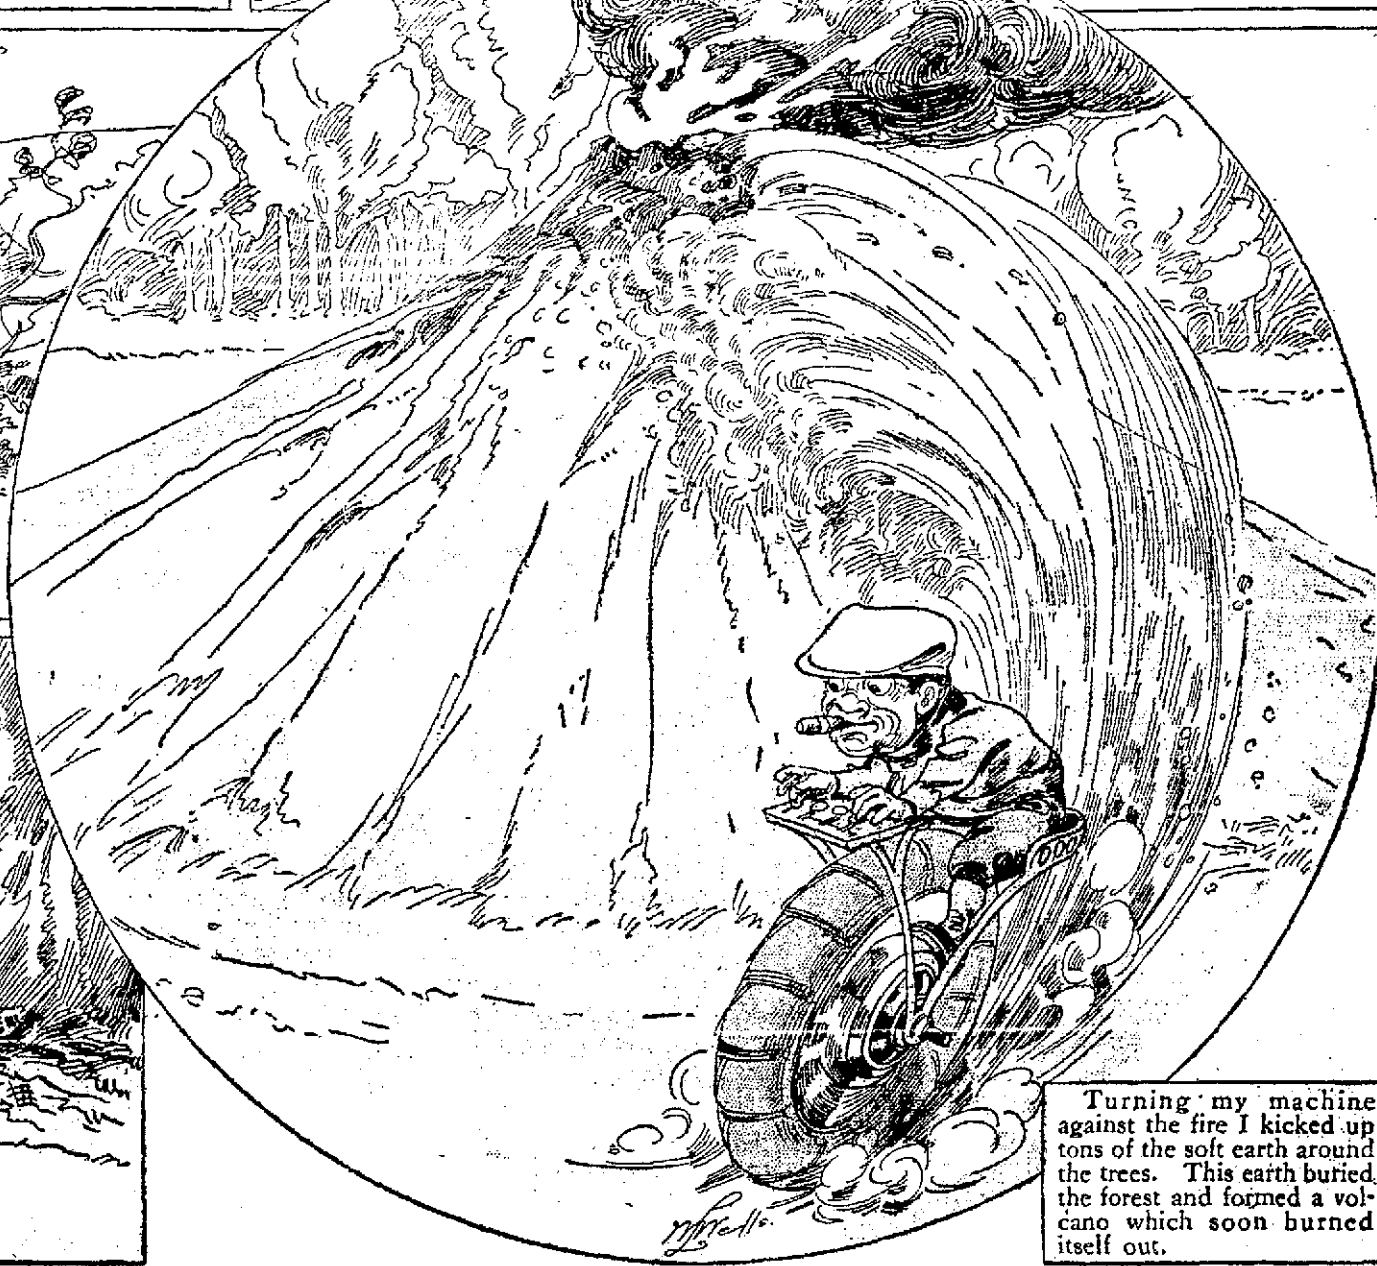

I couldn't see just where I should improve the roads, so I turned the machine on full speed, hurling a huge strip of earth high in air. Over and upon this strip I ran my machine while in midair, peering down and noting just where my services were most needed.

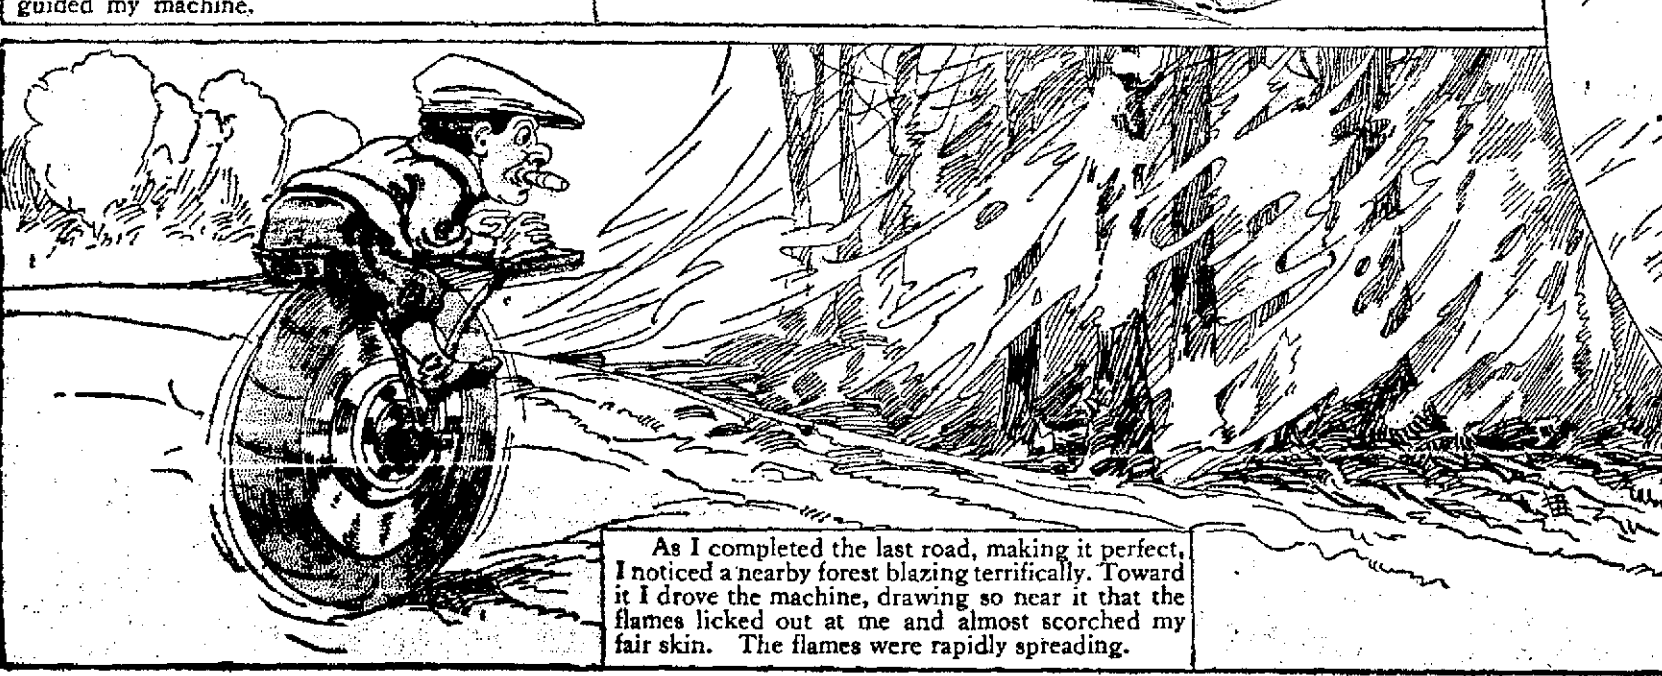

Descending to the ground, I whirled the leveling and digging spurs of the machine over the ruts in the principal roads, building, as I went along, a stout wall of earth and stone along the edge of the many beautiful homesteads past which I merrily guided my machine.

Turning my machine against the fire I kicked up tons of the soft earth around the trees. This earth buried the forest and formed a volcano which soon burned itself out.

As I completed the last road, making it perfect, I noticed a nearby forest blazing terrifically. Toward it I drove the machine, drawing so near it that the flames licked out at me and almost scorched my fair skin. The flames were rapidly spreading.

Chicago Egyptologists Have Just Thrown Some New Light on the Bloody Career of Wicked Old King Amunoph III, of Egypt, Who Murdered His Guests After Each Banquet, Killed 300

Wives by the Time He Was 27 and Amused Himself by Tossing Them to the Crocodiles with His Own Hands. He Was King of Egypt 1450 B. C.

In the Meantime Amunoph Married a Dozen Times a Day

"BLUE BEARD" champion of the world—King Amunoph III, of Egypt.

Murder will out, although it may be 5,000 years coming. Egypt is not to be blamed for failing to serve news promptly, for a man who engaged in such a wholesale business as Amunoph was bound to keep the printers on the stone slabs pretty busy. The printers got way behind in their work, and besides, if Amunoph's reputation is to be believed, they didn't dare advertise too many of his private affairs. He had the drop on them, being king.

Anyway, Egyptologists are just learning that Egypt's printers in the stone age were like the reporter who had all of the story but the facts. They knew Amunoph was a brutal man, with a penchant for getting rid of his wives and friends, especially his wives, faster than the high priests could get him married, but they never dreamed that he was dealing in carloads lots. It so happened that a half dozen murders at the palace on a bright May morning never ceased to be.

Amunoph was descended from a vigorous line of fighters, notably the four Thothmeses, none of them champions, but all of them with good fighting blood in their veins. There was nothing they liked better than a scrap. Amunoph started out friendly enough until he became king, and then he took off the lid. Prof. James Henry Breasted of the University of Chicago, among other students of ancient history and Egyptology, has just determined that all war was not peace in the palace during the reign of Amunoph; in fact recent developments show that Amunoph holds the wife murder record for all time.

Coffin Enlivened Stag Party.
Within the last few months the fact that up to the time Amunoph was 27 years of age he had murdered over 300 wives has been practically established beyond a shadow of a doubt. As yet they can only generalize as to the mad career of this king. They hope that in years to come they may be able to ascertain more definitely the identity of his many victims.

Amunoph was having a party one night. It was one of those stag affairs, common enough in those days, but then they were viewed with suspicion. Having been invited to one of the king's parties there was no dodging it for a previous engagement.

While the salad was being served the waiters brought in a coffin one or two cubits in length, and in it the wooden effigy of a dead body, perfectly imitated by the king's own private sculptor and painter. It was handed to Amunoph, who gazed admiringly on it and then passed it around to his quaking guests.

"Look upon this," he said, "then drink

"after thy death." The guests knew right away that there was going to be something doing for them in the near future, so they began to wind up their little business matters and prepare for the grand blow-off. It came on the following morning, before the king and his assembled family, consisting of a couple of hundred wives. The men, whose names posterity does not know, went through the ordeal without a murmur. But they had had a good time the night before, anyway.

First Wife Is Frolic Victim.

The performance made a great hit with Amunoph, and he began looking around for novelties in this line. It seems that he had had for his first wife a venerated heiress named Nitocris. Her advent into Amunoph's family was quickly followed by scores of others, many of them prettier, more attractive as to figure, and invariably better able to amuse his highness. All she had on her rivals was a little Egyptian money, but she didn't have it long, for no sooner was she the wife of Amunoph than her money was his, too. Of course, that was understood.

As Amunoph had a great deal of dead bodies—the mortal remains of the men he had wined and dined the night before—and caught sight of wife number one, Nitocris, lounging around on the outer edge of his presence, wondered, no doubt, if she was going to get by. No, she was not. The frolic was on.

Amunoph had loved his attendants. "See thou vander woman, Nitocris, whom I first took unto myself?" he asked. "See that her life is taken from her—now, in the presence of these, my prettier and more gracious wives."

Amunoph yawned during the epilogue, which had its little moral for the other wives, who, we are told, "counseled among themselves as to the best way of restoring the good humor of his grace." As the body of Nitocris, riddled by swords, was dragged away, the sigh of the remaining 299 wives was not for the one who had been slain, but for the others who might even now be tagged for public slaughter.

Married Dozen Times a Day.

Then Amunoph began tampering with the rules. Every up to date method then in existence was brought into play. Amunoph, it has lately been learned, even hired men of originality to conceive novel means by which he might kill a couple of his wives. Something new and clever he was looking for all the time.

Murders were being pulled off in every corner of the palace. Of course the king did his best to keep all his engagements, but he could hardly be expected to do more than an ordinary man's work. He attended the death bed scenes of his favorite wives, while the others who did not stand so high in his estimation had to get through it alone as best they could.

In the meantime Amunoph was getting married a dozen times a day. Sometimes his dates so conflicted that when there were a large number of wives going out, those coming in were married in bulk. Individual service was absolutely impossible, for the king was a busy man. Occasionally there would be an unusually good looking candidate in the lot, and this one the king would favor with a little extra grace. But invariably it was found that those who were thus honored at the start had a more horrible fate than the others.

rest of them from getting jealous. Now, Amunoph III, was otherwise known as Achencheres, or Chebres, and was one of the Theban or Diospolitan kings of the eighteenth dynasty. It was in this dynasty that Egypt had a large circle of friends, and it was probably because of this that the palace was kept so quiet that kings of the smaller countries surrounding were glad to get places for their daughters in Amunoph's palace, for it was reported about the country that they had jolly good times there.

One king, Timaios, who was from the north of Egypt, was thus deceived by public gossip, and he sent his daughter, Hatasu, to the king for his approval. Now Amunoph was not overly particular about the looks. It followed with Timaios, and his death resulted. His army, however, was victorious, and Timaios was put to death for his impertinence.

Egyptologists are greatly interested in the career of Amunoph, which is just as yet was an item, of course, but the main thing was that they had royal blood in them.

Finally Loses His Own Life.

Amunoph heard that his daughter was not treated well by Amunoph. And so, taking an army with him, he went down to see if he couldn't fix things up. Amunoph was warned of the approach of the enemy, and this accounted for the fact that business of wife murder quieted down a bit. While Amunoph was preparing for the attack the wives took occasion to sneak from the palace and throw themselves into the river where the crocodiles could get them.

Amunoph was injured in the battle that a little hazy. They know that he ascended the throne after Thothmes IV., about 1450 B. C., and that he was succeeded in 1408 B. C. by Khaematen, so that he was only 42 years old when he had his fatal quarrel with Timaios. Having murdered over 300 wives by the time he was 27 years of age, researchers for the truth are horrified at the possibilities contained in those last fifteen years which he served as king of Egypt. In the Metropolitan museum, New York, is contained a sword said to have belonged to Amunoph. Probably it saw a lot of service, for there is evidence enough to show that Amunoph himself helped in the murder of many of his wives.

How He Treated His Guests.

While the salad was being served the waiters brought in a coffin one or two cubits in length, and in it the wooden effigy of a dead body.

"Look upon this," he said, "then drink and be merry, for such as thou seest it wilt thou be, after thy death."

Now that was where the joke came in—"after thy death." It came on the following morning, before the king and his assembled family, consisting of a couple of hundred wives.
